LAWYERS REQUEST PRE-TRIAL HEARING IN FULTON COURTS

Measure To Relieve Congestion of Dockets Advocated at Fiftieth Anniversary Session.

SIBLEY IS ELECTED TO BAR PRESIDENCY

Judges Support Plan To Expedite Adjudication; Reid Honored by Group.

Institution of pre-trial hearings to expedite adjudication of civil cases and to relieve congestion of Fulton county dockets was recommended last night by the Atlanta Bar Association with the prospect that the program may become effective within a few months.

The action was taken at the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. Fulton Superior Court Judges John D. Humphries, Edgar E. Pomeroy, Hugh M. Dorsey and Paul S. Etheridge praised the proposal, saying it would be a distinct advantage.

Sibley President.
William H. Sibley was elected president of the association for 1939, succeeding John T. Dennis. Elbert P. Tuttle was named first vice president, and Granger Hensell, second vice president. In addition to the officers, who serve as ex-officio members, Philip H. Alston, F. M. Bird, Thomas B. Branch, Grover Middlebrooks and William G. Grant were named to the executive committee.

Speakers praised the association and its contribution to the program of Atlanta on the anniversary observance.
Past presidents and charter members of the organization were honored guests along with Charles S. Reid, who today will take the oath of office as chief justice of the Georgia supreme court as successor of the late Richard B. Russell Sr.

Trial Speed.
In recommending the pre-trial hearing in civil cases, it was pointed out that one of the judges would hear all pertinent facts on which attorneys representing both sides could agree. This, it was explained, would save time during the trial.

All issues on which both parties agreed thus would be eliminated through stipulations made by the pre-trial judge. The judge who held the pre-trial would be disqualified from sitting on the case, thus insuring an impartial hearing on facts not agreed to.

Judge Humphries said the civil calendar is about 10 months behind at present, but that under the present handling of cases this would be cut to six months by next June.

"I think, however, that the proposed pre-trial hearing would be a distinct advantage, and I favor it," he added.

Judge Pomeroy said: "Some details must be worked out. We do not know just how we can go now, but I think it would be advantageous to all litigants. It has considerable merit."

Judge Etheridge declared: "Legislative changes may be mandatory before the pre-trial system can be made effective in superior courts, but I think it

WALTER H. RICH.

W. H. RICH NAMED TO SCHOOL BOARD

Rivers Appoints Leading Atlanta Businessman to State Education Body.

Walter H. Rich, president of Rich's, Inc., and prominent in business and educational circles, was appointed a member of the state board of education last night by Governor Rivers.

Mr. Rich succeeds Charles S. Reid, appointed three weeks ago but who resigned to accept the chief justiceship of the state supreme court.

Mr. Rich is a strong supporter of education. He is a member of the advisory council of Emory University, a member of the board of trustees of Young Harris, and has served as a member of the Atlanta board of education.

A well-known business leader, Mr. Rich has long been identified with civic and philanthropic activities in Atlanta. He has served on a number of committees dealing with civic works. These include his activities in connection with the Dogwood Festival.

Mr. Rich was notified by Governor Rivers by telephone and said he would be "happy to serve on the board." He probably will be inducted this morning at Emory University.

Cravey was named to the fish and game commission by former Governor Eugene Talmadge. He is well known in state political circles.

EUROPE MAY FIGHT IN FEW MONTHS, KENNEDY BELIEVES

Prospect of Peace Clouded by Recent Events, Ambassador Advises President Roosevelt.

EXECUTIVE GETS OTHER REPORTS

Welles, Bullitt Also Confer at White House on Foreign Developments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, paid a flying visit here today to report to President Roosevelt that he thinks the possibility of war in Europe within a few months is very great. He brought a pessimistic view of political developments there to the White House and to State Department officials whom he saw during a busy eight-hour stay here. Swift-moving developments centering around Germany were uppermost in his mind.

Kennedy returned from London yesterday for his second visit since going abroad less than a year ago. He came here by plane this morning and flew back tonight to New York, whence he will leave Sunday for a six-week vacation in Palm Beach, Fla. The ambassador smilingly denied reports that he would resign and said he would return to his post in February "unless something happened before then."

NAZIS REDOUBLE UKRAINE AGITATION FOR NEW NATION

Seek To Enroll All White Russians, Pointing to Establishment of Vast New State in Europe.

RUTHENIA HEART OF PROPAGANDA

45,000,000 People Are Involved in New Machinations of the Reich.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—(P)—With the Balkans already in Germany's economic orbit, signs point to increasing Nazi interest in the Ukraine.

This interest in the Ukrainians manifested itself today in a number of ways.

1. Press announcements asked all "stateless" Ukrainians—Russians who declined to become Soviet Russian citizens—to send their names and personal data to "the Ukrainian confidential office which takes care of the interests of stateless Ukrainians living within the German reich."

2. Editorials discussed the situation of the Ukrainians and there were radio broadcasts from Germany in the Ukrainian language.

3. Nazi economic writers indicated Germany would hold to a steady course in her economic push to the east even in the face of a possible British-subsidized trade war.

Atlantan Gives Opportunity Year's Support Anonymously

Donates $720 to Provide $60 a Month, Which Will Keep Promising Family Together and With New Chance at Life.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Another one of the Ten Opportunity families found security yesterday when an anonymous Atlantan contributed $720 to give a family of five $60 a month during 1939 while the father fights to regain his health.

The story of the T. family would have appeared today as Opportunity No. 7, but even before it could be printed, this generous man volunteered to help materially in the struggle of Mr. T., his wife and their three young daughters to regain a foothold on life and happiness.

Christmas cheer will be theirs because they now can see their way to independence, just as Christmas cheer will be this anonymous man's, because he will know he has helped provide for a family knocked off its feet by a terrible disease that struck down its sole wage-earner.

Germany Seeks To Pluck Ripe Fields of the Ukraine

The tide of empire rolls to the east and to war. Germany (black), has revived the dream of a Ukrainian nation, embracing 45,000,000 persons and dominated by the Reich. Poland, Russia and Rumania have announced that they will go to war rather than surrender their Ukrainian populations. White Russians are reported discussing a plan to mobilize 1,000,000 men composed of exiles to fight for the new nation sought by Germany. The Russian Ukraine is designated by heavy shading, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, Nazi satellites, by light shading, Poland and Rumania in white. The Ruthenian province of Czechoslovakia constitutes a Nazi gun pointed at the heart of the Ukraine, which is, however, still guarded by the armor of Polish and Rumanian territory.

COTTON COUNCIL ORGANIZED HERE

10-Point Program Adopted and Officers Elected for State Participation.

A 10-point program for advancement of Georgia cotton and allied interests was projected yesterday at an organization meeting of the Georgia unit of the National Cotton Council held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

R. C. Neeley, Waynesboro, was elected chairman and a vigorous drive was formulated.

The council is dedicated to protection of cotton interests of the nation. Georgia's share of the expense for 1939 was placed at $17,320.

Other officers elected were: C. D. Shaw, Cartersville; H. E. McMath, Americus, and B. S. Barnes, Macon, vice chairmen, and T. E. Fletcher, Cordele, secretary-treasurer.

Among the major objectives of the organization are:

1. To expand consumption of cotton and cottonseed, both domestic and foreign.
2. To foster scientific research for new cotton uses and for cotton-by-products.

3. To aid all groups whose activities affect favorably the interests of the council by co-ordinating efforts of such agencies.

4. To favor and sponsor legislation, federal and state, which seeks increased consumption of cotton, cottonseed and other by-products, and to combat legislation discriminating against cotton interests.

5. To modify freight rates, tariffs and maritime rates, and thus give cotton interests an equal standing with other interests.
6. To combat insect ravages

Hitler Outlined Nazi Designs On Ukraine in 'Mein Kampf'

"Fate Abandoned Russia to Bolshevism . . . Fate Itself Seems to Wish to Give Us Our Direction," Reichsfuehrer Wrote in His Book.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

As news dispatches tell of Nazi designs in the Ukraine, Hitler's chapter on "Eastern Policy" in his book, "Mein Kampf" (My Struggle), fits into the present European picture. Hitler writes, in this chapter, in one of the expurgated English translations on sale in this country:

"No nation on earth holds a square yard of territory by any right derived from heaven. Frontiers are made and altered by human agency alone. The fact that a nation succeeds in acquiring an unfair share of territory is no superior reason for its being respected forever.

"We National Socialists have deliberately drawn a line through the pre-war tendency of our own foreign policy. We stem the Germanic stream toward the south and west of Europe and turn our eyes eastward."

Here in Hitler's own words, written years ago before he reached power, is the prelude to his "Drang Nach Osten"—the "drive to the east"—which has been one of the principal factors in European unrest.

Continuing, Hitler writes: "We have finished with the pre-war policy of colonies and trade, and are going over to the land policy of the future. When we talk of new lands in Europe we are bound first to think of Russia and her border states (the Ukraine)."

"Fate itself seems to wish to give us our direction."

"When fate abandoned Russia to Bolshevism, it robbed the Russian people of the educated class which once created and guaranteed their existence as a state."

"The organized Russian state"

COMMITTS SUICIDE AS U. S. AGENTS KNOCK AT HIS DOOR

Authorities Attempting To Rearrest Evil Financial Genius; Brothers Held on $100,000 Bail.

COSTER IMPLICATED IN WARS OVERSEAS

Disclosed To Have Had a Third Identity During World War—Johnson.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—F. Donald Coster, an incredible dual personality of evil financial genius, who wiped out his earlier identity as Convict Philip Musica to become head of an $87,000,000 drug concern, killed himself today at his Fairchild, Conn., country estate.

He fired a bullet into his head at the very moment a squad of federal authorities was knocking on his ornate door to re-arrest him in the investigation of a great financial scandal involving his firm—McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

While Coster was dying in the Connecticut mansion, authorities in New York identified George Vernard, Canadian agent of the corporation, and two of its other employees as Musicas—all brothers

ATLANTANS HOLD BUT LITTLE STOCK

Atlanta stockbrokers said yesterday that the McKesson-Robbins situation would bring but small losses to local investors, pointing out that there has been only a small amount of trading here in the stock.

One broker estimated that less than 1,000 shares of the stock ever have been held by Atlantans.
Several banks said they had small blocks pledged as collateral for loans but the amounts involved were negligible.

of the financier. They were "George Dietrich," assistant treasurer of the firm, and "Robert Dietrich," purchasing agent for the firm in Bridgeport, Conn.

Late in the day, Vernard was arraigned on a grand jury indictment charging him with filing false information on McKesson & Robbins stock listings, and Robert Dietrich, youngest of the brothers, was arraigned on a simple charge of violating the SEC act. They were held in $100,000 each.

Vernard was arrested by detectives with drawn guns who had threatened to shoot their way into his tightly-shut, sumptuous home in Brooklyn. His car was in the driveway, apparently ready for an imminent departure.

Held on $100,000 Bail.

The same $100,000 bail was required of George Dietrich upon his arraignment in New Haven.

Coster, Vernard and Dietrich already were under indictment for making false statements to the New York Stock Exchange in connection with McKesson & Robbins securities sold to the public, and their bond—$5,000 for Coster and Dietrich and $3,500 for Vernard—had been set at comparatively low figures.

30 Year Record.

But the hour of Coster's unmasking as Philip Musica, a man with a criminal record going back 30 years or more, had come last night, and this morning the process of revelation had gone on until the government decided to re-arrest the three and ask $100,000 bond.

Piling on top of disclosures that more than one Musica brother had made a new name and a new life were other developments that completely overshadowed for the moment the central purpose of a four-sided investigation that for more than a week has sought to discover the reason for an ap-

Brilliant Array of Christmas Lights Blaze at the Governor's Mansion on The Prado

A brilliant display of Christmas lights was turned on late yesterday at the executive mansion on The Prado for Governor Rivers. Out of respect for the family of young Frank T. Ukraine Lands Pledge Anti-Nazi Fight Russia, Poland, Rumania Inform France That Provinces Will Not Be Surrendered Peaceably.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(UP)—Soviet Russia and Poland, both of which have mutual assistance pacts with France, have informed the French government that they will fight in defense of the Ukrainian provinces within their borders, it was revealed on authority tonight.

King Carol II, of Rumania, likewise, has informed Paris that his country would go to war rather than surrender Ukrainian Besarabia.

The revelation of the readiness of Russia, Poland and Rumania to fight for retention of their Ukrainian populations followed articles in the German press forecasting a vast, independent Ukraine in eastern Europe with Nazis dominating a population of 45,000,000.

Territory Sought.
This Ukrainian state, according to the Nazi press accounts, would be carved from the territories of Soviet Russia, Poland, Rumania and the autonomous province of Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) in eastern Czechoslovakia.

White Russian leaders met in Paris today, coincident with the arrival of Grand Duke Vladimir, pretender to the Czarist imperial throne of Russia, and studied developments in the Ukrainian independence movement.

The White Russians studied the possibility of assembling nearly 1,000,000 Czarist exiles of the former White Russian armies—scattered throughout Europe—in an army to fight for independence.

Grand Duke Vladimir arrived here from Brittany en route to Berlin where, it has been reported, Chancellor Hitler might offer him the regency of the proposed Ukrainian state which would be the second largest nation in Europe.

Admits Plans.
A spokesman for the Grand Duke admitted that he plans to go to Germany for a visit to his sister Kyra, who married a grandson of the former German Kaiser last spring, but denied that he planned to discuss the separatist campaign with Nazi leaders.

A communique issued tonight on behalf of the 21-year-old czarist pretender said that he "formally denies all rumors concerning alleged political aims of his visit to Germany."

"He is going to Germany December 19 but only to spend the

Comradeship Marks Annual Meeting of Jaycees

The camera clicked last night at the annual meeting of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, and caught this scene of comradeship. Horne Jr., retiring president.

Christmas and New Year's holidays with his family. He declares he remains faithful to the principle of Russia's territorial integrity, including the Ukraine," the communique said.

The White Russian refugees in their meeting here were enthusiastic over the prospect of a vast, unified state extending from Brest-Litovsk and Premysl in the west to the Don river in the east and from Pinsk in the north to the Crimea in the south.

It would include Rumanian Besarabia, subject of a years-long dispute between Soviet Russia and Rumania and the whole of the rich Dnieper and Dniester river valleys. It would bar Soviet Russia from the Mediterranean and would absorb vast industrial developments.

Junior Chamber Elects Officers, Pays Tribute to Press and Radio

Herbert Hayes Chosen President, Murray Howard Executive Secretary at Annual Meeting; Distinguished Service Keys Presented to Four Members.

Tribute to the press and radio of Atlanta was paid last night as several hundred persons gathered in the East Lake Country Club for the annual dinner and election of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Herbert Hayes was chosen president, succeeding William Horne, who acted as toastmaster. Murray Howard was chosen executive secretary, succeeding Fain Peek, who served for three years and who is retiring to enter private business.

New directors chosen were Nelson Willis, G. W. Thornton and Joe Maddox. Distinguished service keys, for outstanding work during the year, were presented to Peeke, Horne, John Parks and Bill Johnson.

Hugh Head gave a brief speech in honor of Atlanta newspaper and radio men, to which Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, responded on behalf of the "fourth estate" and the radio industry.

A talk in dialect by Warren Foster, in which he satirized the officers, featured the elaborate entertainment program.

Jaycees, their wives and friends, as well as newspaper and radio men attended.

A dance followed the dinner and entertainment program.

some times hourly contact with British leaders throughout the September crisis over Czechoslovakia, indicated that recent events had changed his mind about the prospects of peace.

"Last summer I predicted there would be no war in Europe. Well, I'm going out of the prophet business on December 31," he said grimly.

He did not discuss in detail what he told the President, who during the past month has had personal talks with most of his key ambassadors in Europe. The President's survey of foreign affairs has been further rounded out by a half-hour conversation here this week with Anthony Eden, former British foreign minister. Another ambassador, Nelson T. Johnson, now is on his way home from China in response to a presidential summons to report on developments in the Far East.

President Busy.
Foreign affairs occupied much of the President's attention throughout today. At the White House reception last night, he asked Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, to report to the White House early this morning. They conferred for about half an hour and Welles later declined to comment. William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, entered the presidential study for a talk as Kennedy was leaving.

The latter said he had reviewed the entire British and European situation with the President, telling him of many interesting and intimate episodes.

"The situation is changing fast and not for the better," he said. "The Munich accord has not slowed things down any."

NAZIS REDOUBLE UKRAINE AGITATION

interest in the Ukrainians is seen in the successive attention paid to their fate, now by this representative Atlanta daily or weekly and now by that.

The weekly "Reichwart," for instance, bluntly declares: "Only within the framework of the entire Ukraine can the problem of self-determination and independence of Carpatho-Ukraine be solved."

This as well as other editorial utterances indicates that Nazi thoughts run toward erection some day of a Ukrainian national state, comprising Ukrainians now under five flags—Soviet Russian, Polish, Czechoslovak and to a lesser degree Rumanian and Hungarian.

In this as in other cases the decision as to what Germany is to press for rests solely with Reichsfuehrer.

The Schliesen Zeitung of Breslau disclaims "the role of prophet" in pointing out:

"Today more than ever before Ukrainians are conscious of their national state, and memories of the stark, bloody struggle of 1918 to 1920—heroic despite all its shortcomings—still are alive."

Referring to the recent autonomy won by Carpatho-Ukrainians (Ruthenians) in Czechoslovakia, the article said, "This Carpatho-Ukraine has become within the last few weeks the spiritual heart of a nation of 45,000,000 people."

Balkan Influence.
Nazi influence has blanketed the Balkans, at least economically. Der Wirtschafts-Ring, an economic weekly, took notice of attacks recently by R. S. Hudson, secretary of the British overseas trade department, on German trade methods in the Balkans and the implied threat of "fighting fire with fire." The paper said not only shall we be on guard politically as the Fuehrer has declared but also economically.

Hinting that nothing would swerve Germany from her present economic course, the weekly declared in its current issue: "England has resorted to a trade and currency policy which has led to a burden on all peoples. . . . Even if it took pains and sacrifices nevertheless we have realized how to safeguard our population."

"If re-establishment of world economic freedom or abandonment of today's warlike methods

RUSSELL WILL OPEN COBB'S REA SYSTEM

Ceremonies Today To Energize 170 Miles of Lines for 630 Homes.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 16.—Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. tomorrow will come back to Cobb county, where he once attended school in rural Macland community, and dedicate a rural electrification project which will send power into 20-odd communities in this county and adjoining Fulton and Cherokee counties.

The original impetus which started the project was a move made in December, 1936, by L. R. Langley, county agent. Since that time the Cobb County Rural Electrification Corporation has been formed and this year the Rural Electrification Administration approved a loan of $143,000 to construct 170.2 miles of lines, serving 630 farm homes.

Other Speakers Today.
The ceremonies tomorrow at Marietta courthouse, beginning at 10 o'clock, will include, besides the senator's speech, short addresses by Mayor L. M. Blair, of Marietta; Representative James V. Carmichael, of Cobb; Harold F. Clark, of the REA, of Birmingham, Ala.; Commissioner Charles M. Head, of Cobb, and others.

After the switch is thrown by the senator, a barbecue will be held at Marietta Country Club.

State Senator James T. Manning will be master of ceremonies for the exercises.

Corporation Officers.
Officers of the corporation include Carl Hamby, project superintendent; J. M. Davenport, vice president; Clyde H. Kemp, secretary-treasurer; and Charles H. Peetree, Haydn Kemp, W. D. McClure, H. C. Gantt, directors.

The corporation has applied for an additional allotment of $100,000 to construct 100 miles of lines to serve 400 more customers, but the project is awaiting Washington approval.

DODD TO APPEAR IN HIT-RUN CASE

Grand Jury May Receive Charges After Preliminary Hearing Today.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 16.—(UP)—Trial Justice Robert T. Winston indicated tonight he may postpone or send to the grand jury the case of William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, who is scheduled to appear at a preliminary hearing in Ashland tomorrow on charges of hit-run driving.

The former ambassador was charged with striking Gloria Grimes, four-year-old negro girl, and leaving the scene of the accident, a felony under Virginia law. The child remained in critical condition in a hospital tonight.

Dodd, arrested December 8 a few hours after the accident and freed on $2,500 bond, contended the accident was unavoidable and that the child darted across the road when he struck her. His attorney, Leon M. Brazile, will insist Dodd should be held blameless, he indicated.

was not due to any political capacity in the Slav race, but it was a wonderful example of the efficiency of the Germanic element in forming states among inferior races. This Germanic element must now be regarded as entirely wiped out in Russia.

"The Jew has taken its place. It is impossible for the Russian to shake off the Jewish yoke by his own strength as it is for the Jew to keep control of the vast empire for any length of time. His character is not that of an organizer, but of a decomposing leaven."

"Ripe for Collapse."
"This immense empire is ripe for collapse and the end of the Jewish domination will mean the end of Russia as a state."

Taking further "cracks" at Russia, Hitler continues:

"The present-day rulers of Russia have no intention of entering into an alliance honorably or of sticking to one. We must not forget that they are low, bloodstained criminals."

"That it means dealing with the scum of humanity and that favored by circumstances in a tragic hour, they overrun a great state and in a fury of massacre wiped out millions of their most intelligent fellow countrymen, and now for 10 years they have been conducting the most tyrannous regime of all time."

"We must not forget that those rulers belong to a nation which combines a rare mixture of bestial cruelty and a vast skill in lies, and considers itself specially called now to gather the whole world under its bloody oppression."

"We must not forget that the international Jew who continues to dominate over Russia does not regard Germany as an ally, but as a state destined to undergo a similar fate."

The chapter on "Eastern Policy" is the next to last in Hitler's book.

GEORGIA TRUCK TAX GOES TO HIGH COURT

Express Company Attacks It as Burden on Interstate Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Constitutionality of a 1937 Georgia statute imposing a graduated tax on automobile trucks and trailers has been challenged in arguments today before the supreme court by counsel for the Dixie Ohio Express Company.

The law, known as the maintenance tax act, was defended by O. H. Dukes, special assistant attorney general for Georgia. Edgar Watkins and Allan Watkins, Atlanta attorneys for the express company, contended it was an unconstitutional burden on interstate commerce. They said their company used only state-aid highways and that the proceeds of the tax were assigned to rural post roads.

"This act levies a tax for something we do not use," contended Allan Watkins.

Justice Brandeis remarked that the company did use the state's highways and "the question is whether the charge is excessive for the privilege of using the highways."

Dukes said such a tax was constitutional "if it has a reasonable relation to the service rendered."

"A carrier for hire," he added, "is using the highways as a matter of grace and not as a matter of right. I can see no objection for a state, which has furnished highways, to charge a reasonable amount for their use."

Edgar Watkins said the tax at issue would cost the company approximately $6,000 a year on 100 trucks.

The Old Story! Mail It Early And Be Happy

Postmaster Lon F. Livingston yesterday urged all Atlantans to do their Christmas shopping, wrapping, stamp-buying and mailing as soon as possible this year.

Everything should be in the mails in time for delivery on Christmas Eve, the postmaster said, as the postoffice will not be open Christmas Day or the following Monday. Only special delivery service will be provided on those two days.

Livingston has done everything possible for the convenience of the public this season, and has ordered the main and classified post offices to remain open all day today and next Saturday. In addition, six new windows have been opened at the main post office, and two each in the classified branches. Tables for wrapping and stamping parcels have been provided in each station.

The condition of Brigadier Ernest R. Holz, who has been ill for several months, is so serious that his father and son have been called here from New York, it was disclosed yesterday by Colonel Richard F. Stretton of the Salvation Army.

Brigadier Holz is at Veterans Hospital No. 48.

For a number of years, he had charge of the Salvation Army's Atlanta program including the annual Christmas activities, and he also was prominent in organizing and conducting the new Atlanta Boys' Club.

CHATHAM COUNTY GETS TWO WPA PROJECTS

Authorization of two new Chatham county projects costing $287,247 was announced yesterday by the Works Progress Administration. Local sponsors will contribute $33,504 of the cost.

The projects were extension and improvement of the Savannah sanitary sewer system, $240,143, and erection of a one-story town hall building at Savannah Beach, costing $27,104.

Project Funds To Be Sought in Budget

Mayor Hartsfield Favors East North Avenue Underpass But Sees No Way To Obtain Money.

Additional public improvements for Atlanta, including construction of the much-discussed east North Avenue underpass, will be sought when the 1939 budget commission and finance committee meet early in January, city officials indicated yesterday.

A tentative budget as prepared by the retiring budget commission makes no provision for the underpass between Angier and Boulevard avenues, although the construction department had requested $125,000 for this purpose.

Mayor Hartsfield said yesterday he favored the project but added he didn't know where the money was coming from. The budget, as drawn up, provides for the expenditure of approximately $10,000,000. It will be presented to city council Monday to be referred to the 1939 finance groups for study.

Other Projects.

Other proposed projects, for which no provision is made in the tentative budget, are reconstruction of the Jones Avenue bridge, $60,000; reconstruction of the Boulevard underpass, $110,000; and reconstruction of the West Lake Avenue bridge, $7,500.

Requests of $2,500 for widening Luckie street, $3,000 for widening Glenwood Avenue from Elm Shoals to Moreland Avenue, and $7,500 for construction of approaches to the Edgewood Avenue viaduct, were granted in the construction department.

Other items asked for by department heads but not recommended in the tentative budget include:

Chief O. J. Parker's request for 10 more men for the fire department and $48,000 for new equipment.

The chief pointed out he was seeking the restoration of 10 men dropped in an economy move.

Parks Appropriation.

Appropriations totaling $55,200 for the parks department and including $12,000 for the Cyclorama, $5,000 for improvements in Oakland City park; $20,000 for a new bath house in Madox Park, $10,000 for a new greenhouse unit in Grant park, $4,200 to build a new road to Fort Walker in Grant park, and $4,000 for a new playground for the East Lake section.

The budget commission approved the purchase of new equipment for the sanitary department. This included 12 new trucks and a sweeper to cost approximately $25,000.

The commission also granted a request for $39,000 additional appropriation for the pension fund.

Other improvements approved include $23,140 for new equipment and salary adjustments at Grady hospital and equipment for the city-county fire station in Lakewood Heights.

Several other minor improvements are expected to be sought when the new budget commission meets.

B. Graham West, city comptroller, pointed out that most of the departments had been unusually conservative in their requests.

Would Purchase Plant.

Mayor Hartsfield has already announced he will ask for an appropriation to purchase an asphalt plant for the city.

Chief Donaldson recommended the purchase of such a plant in submitting his budget for the construction department.

The budget commission received no request from Chief Hornsby for additional policemen.

The mayor also announced he will ask the budget commission to find funds with which to carry out five recommendations for solving Atlanta's traffic problem.

He pointed out that other improvements must be combined with the 25-mile-an-hour traffic law if a permanent solution is to be found.

The recommendations made by Captain Ray Ashworth, associate director of the safety division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, are as follows:

1. That all police personnel engaged in traffic work be assigned to the traffic division and receive all of their orders solely through the commanding officers of that division.

Dinner Honors Congressman Ramspeck

Three important figures in the lives of thousands of government employees met here last night at a dinner in honor of Congressman Robert Ramspeck, chairman of the civil service committee of the house of representatives. From left to right are John Barrett, president of the United Association of Post Office Clerks, and chairman of the National Legislative Council; Mr. Ramspeck, and Luther C. Stewart, president of the National Federation of Federal Employees.

Ramspeck Will Offer Bill To Place State Employees on Civil Service

End Would Be Achieved by Making It a Requirement to Receive Federal Funds; Backs Plan to Extend System to All Federal Workers.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck last night announced his intention of introducing two bills in the next session of congress to improve the position of government employees.

One bill, he said, will extend the merit system to all positions in government service, with the exception of policy-forming jobs. It will contain every phase of the late reorganization bill, except abolition of the bipartisan Civil Service Commission, and substitution of a single administrator.

The other measure will require every state that receives money from the federal government to place its employees under civil service provisions.

Pledges Every Effort.

"That measure, if adopted, and I pledge my every effort to secure its adoption, will remove the threat of public servants, appointed on a political basis, neglecting their jobs to fight for candidates during elections," he said.

"It is especially needed today, with vast new armies of state, county, federal and city employees engaged in the great works of social welfare that modern governments have assumed."

"Civil service in local governments would greatly strengthen the position of the merit system in the federal government," Ramspeck said. "The hardest job of interest in extending the merit system in the national government is convincing new members of congress of its necessity. The new members are elected by shifts according to the accident experience."

3. That the motorcycle squad be increased from the present 26 to a minimum of 50 men and that these men be worked on a selective enforcement basis.

4. That Atlanta employ a competent traffic engineer and provide him with adequate office space, staff and equipment so that he can carry on a good engineering program.

5. That Atlanta provide by ordinance for compulsory periodical inspection of all motor vehicles and that this unit be provided with adequate housing, equipment and personnel to test the safety factors of all cars at least twice each year.

The recommendations made by Captain Ray Ashworth, associate director of the safety division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, are as follows:

1. That all police personnel engaged in traffic work be assigned to the traffic division and receive all of their orders solely through the commanding officers of that division.

Traffic Engineer.

2. That the accident investigation personnel be assigned on through intensive study, with state and federal aid.

7. To study through appropriate committees and through other means all problems involving any one or more of the cotton interests.

8. To insist that, if a processing tax is placed on cotton, a similar tax be imposed on all competing materials.

Among those present at the meeting were: J. P. Etheridge, Perry, representing the growers' group; George H. Levy, Atlanta, and B. S. Barnes, Macon, cotton merchants; E. D. Black, Macon, and H. E. McNath, Americus, seed crushers; L. E. Floyd, LaGrange, T. E. Fletcher, Cordele, and DuPuy Bateman Jr., Atlanta, warehousemen, and George S. Reese, Preston; S. S. Johnson, Silver Creek, and R. C. Neely, Waynesboro, cotton producers.

PEDESTRIAN TRIPS 'TARZAN' SUSPECT

Youth Leaps From Viaduct, Dents Auto Top, Arises and Runs Off, But—

A young negro leaped from the Wall street viaduct, landed on top of a parked sedan 25 feet below, scrambled to his feet and eluded police pursuers, but was finally captured yesterday noon when a pedestrian tripped him and sent him sprawling on a sidewalk.

The negro gave his name as John McDaniel, 18, of McDonough. He was booked on suspicion, by Detectives I. G. Cowan and Harry F. Williams.

Detectives reported they were cruising near the Central Avenue viaduct when they saw the negro peering into parked automobiles. They called to him, seeking to question him, they said, and the negro came to their car, but held a hand against a door, to prevent those inside from getting out.

Cowan pushed open the door, the negro ran, with the police in pursuit. When the negro reached the viaduct he climbed the railing and jumped. In dropping to the car which belonged to Miss Lillian Kirkman, of 5 Villa drive, he put a deep dent in the roof.

About a half-hour later, however, police saw McDaniel again in the Central Avenue viaduct and chased him. The quarry was stopped when a pedestrian put out a foot and tripped him. The negro was unhurt.

Pooey To Santy! Atlanta's Kids Stop Writing

By JACK SPALDING III.

"Times have indeed changed," sighed a grizzled Atlanta post-office employee yesterday, dropping a salty tear and a prayer for the lost generation of youngsters now entering grammar school.

"Not so long ago it seemed that we received hundreds of letters addressed to Santa Claus. We got so many, they sort of gummed things up. But this year, we haven't received more than five. In spite of the trouble, I think I liked it better the other way."

Atlanta children may not be the romanticists their parents were, but postal employees don't think that any of them are quite the realists that are produced in New Jersey.

The Newark post office reported receiving a Santa Claus letter from little Marie, who admits she "slipped once in a while."

Among other things, she asked for "a bottle of beer for papa."

"We don't think anything like that can happen in Georgia for a while yet," the gray-haired veteran of many Christmas rushes said, probably thinking of unborn generations, hardened and calloused to the facts of life, weeks before they are weaned.

PATENTS DECLARED PRICE 'STABILIZER'

Glass Industry Also Limited Competitors, Monopoly Prober Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—After a week-long investigation of the glass container industry, Chairman O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, of the monopoly committee, said tonight that control of essential patents had enabled a small group to "affect" competition, limit production, "stabilize" prices, and prevent new competitors from entering the field.

At the same time, Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general and a member of the committee, said the situation was typical of that prevailing in numerous other industries.

He announced that "carefully documented" memoranda covering these would be presented to the committee later.

During today's hearings, government investigators produced figures to show that the Hartford Empire Company, of Hartford, Conn., which holds essential patents for the production of glass containers, reaped last year a net return of 87 per cent on the capital employed in its operations. These figures were described by a company official as substantially correct.

Heart and Appendix On Her Wrong Side

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

COVINGTON, Ga., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Louise German, 36-year-old mother of two children, was recovering today from an operation which many believed would mean her death.

In every way, but a detailed examination showed her heart and appendix were on the wrong side. Physicians stated that similar cases appeared only about one in a thousand.

$500,000 CANAL OVER FRANCE STUDIED

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(UP)—The French government tonight was reported to be contemplating an accord for construction of a $500,000 canal across France, permitting quick access to the Mediterranean by British and French warships.

Discussion of such a strategic aid to empire defense was underfoot, have been quickened as result of France's survey of the military situation in the Mediterranean in the light of Italy's new territorial demands.

enues under the higher rate. Roughly, the southeastern territory is below the Ohio and Potomac rivers and east of the Mississippi river. The eastern territory, where the 2.5-cent fare now is in effect, extends as far west as Chicago and St. Louis and south to the Ohio and Potomac.

John A. Hastings, of New York, sponsor of a "postalization" plan for railroads, petitioned the ICC today to reopen the eastern fare case. He said the carriers' contention that they could make more money under the 2.5-cent fare "has no foundation in fact, in theory, in experience, or in the history of said carriers or other carriers."

Hastings' proposal would provide a zone system for passenger fares, somewhat like the parcel post plan, instead of the present mileage basis.

During the first 10 months this year, Class 1 railroads had passenger revenues of $337,758,798 compared with $369,558,378 for the same period last year. Revenues of $31,459,456 in October, 1938, compared with $35,510,131 for the same month last year.

would react to the advantage of all parties in civil suits. I am in accord with it, and hope it can become operative soon."

Dorsey stated: "It seems to me that such a procedure would help us in the trial of civil cases. The federal government has instituted a similar system to relieve congestion, and it is working. We should at least give it a trial."

Although the meeting was hailed as a golden anniversary jubilee, the lawyers last night considered many serious phases of the profession and heard Reuben Arnold, charter member of the organization, praise the contribution of lawyers to American independence.

"Let's go slowly so we will not do much harm if we are making a mistake," he declared. "The lawyer will have much to do in the next few years. He should make his patriotic contribution to moulding the future of America."

Reid told the lawyers: "I am humble, have a horror of possible isolation and need the help of every member of the bar to make a success of the position I am about to accept."

There were counsellors, attorneys, lawyers, barristers, advocates and even a scattering of lawyers among the 250 who gathered for jubilee. There were many jibes, jokes and good-natured kidding as old friends met. It was like a fraternity meeting where old alumni return to their alma mater.

Past presidents who occupied seats at the speakers' table were: Alderman William Thomson, Grover Middlebrooks, Judge Pomeroy, Judge Shepard Bryan, Judge Arthur Powell, Eugene Mitchell, "dean of past presidents," Arnold, James A. Branch, Frank Carter and Stephens Mitchell, Robert B. Troutman, the other living past president, could not attend.

Charter Members.

Sitting at a large round table, presided over by Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the federal district court, were grouped the charter members of the association. In the center was a large bowl of flowers, and when Dennis called attention to the group, the youngsters arose to give an ovation.

Among those at the table were: Hudson Moore, former law partner of Judge Pomeroy who came from Denver to be present; George Spence, Walter W. Visanski, Harry Eshridge, Ernest C. Kontz, Judge Alexander W. Stephens, of the court of appeals; Walter McElreath, George B. Rush, Edgar A. Neely, J. Henry Porter, Charles J. Haden, Judge Humphries, Philip Alston, Walter C. Hendrix, Paul Johnson, Victor Smith, former Governor John M. Slaton, Willis M. Everette, Robert Lee Avery, Alex E. Meyer, W. Perry Bloodworth, Jack Stewart, Thomas Goodwin, W. O. Wilson, Leonard Haas and Frank Neufville.

Committees were established to prepare memorials to be read in Fulton county superior courts on Friday, January 27, to the following:

ing members who died since the last annual meeting:

Colonel Jack J. Spalding, in whose honor the group stood when Dennis read a letter written to him just before the former president of the organization died; Judge Frank Harwell, E. V. Carter, Robert C. Alston, Leon C. Green and Judge James K. Jordan.

Among other recommendations made by various committees were:

1. Institution of a telephone calendar to save the time of courts, witnesses and attorneys by having attorneys notified just before cases are called instead of setting them and then having them postponed time and again.

2. Establishment of a service agency for lawyers to work for better law enforcement and higher ethics.

3. Organization of a trust company to be operated by lawyers and another recommendation that lawyers provide insurance service for titles in order to preserve real estate business.

RUSSELL HARGRAVE SERVICES ARE HELD

Georgia Power Company Advertising Employee Buried in Thomasville.

Funeral services for Andrew Russell Hargrave, 27, an employee of the advertising department of the Georgia Power Company who died Thursday at his home in Thomasville, were conducted there yesterday afternoon.

Son of W. D. Hargrave, business manager of the Thomasville Times Enterprise, Mr. Hargrave had been living in Atlanta since April, 1937. Ill since October, he recently was taken to Thomasville from a private hospital here.

He was a native of Thomasville and a graduate of the University of Georgia where he served as editor of the Red and Black, a student publication. Prior to his connection with the power company, he had held newspaper positions at Cartersville, Americus, Memphis and with the Atlanta bureau of the United Press.

Prayer To Gods Of Indian Tribe Brings Succor

ZUNI, N. M., Dec. 16.—(P)—Rain came to this Indian village today after a night of prayers to Zuni gods.

To the tribesmen, whose crops and livestock were threatened by drought, it was proof that the great feathered Shalako dieties had found the village worthy of their help.

Almost at the very moment when the Zunis began their annual Shalako feast last night, rain began to fall.

The Shalako ceremony each December is a communal prayer of appreciation for blessings of the past year, and a plea for increase of crops, flocks and families in the year to come.

BANDS AND SANTA TO PARADE TODAY FOR BIG BROTHERS

Martial and Christmas Array Joins Forces in Pressing Battle Against Gloom This Yuletide.

Eye-catching members of the Georgia Girls' Military Band, 75 strong, will escort Santa Claus to Five Points at 11 o'clock this morning in the annual Big Brothers Parade.

With bugles blaring and drums beating, the Gate City Post Junior Drum and Bugle Corps and the safety patrol of Bass Junior High school will parade with them, not for the fun of it, but to remind you of the Big Brothers, and their annual Christmas campaign to banish gloom from the poorest homes of Atlanta.

Reaching Five Points the bands, directed by Major Ralph Hook, will serenade the city with martial and Christmas music to remind you that this campaign of the Big Brothers is in effect a war against dreariness, and carols to remind you that Christmas time is the season for giving.

Paper Sale Tomorrow. Meanwhile, organization for the paper sale tomorrow morning is virtually completed. Big Brothers, leaders in the business and professional life of Atlanta, will canvass the streets for two hours, selling special editions of The Constitution. Every cent realized from the sale of the papers will be converted into food and gifts to fill Christmas baskets for the very poor.

To add further incentive to the work Claude S. Bennett, Atlanta Jeweler and Big Brother, announced yesterday that he had donated a cup for the Big Brother who does the best work in his two hours as a newsboy tomorrow. Bennett's cup will be added to the already long list of trophies to be awarded teams and individuals who sell the most papers and bring in the greatest results in various sections of Atlanta tomorrow morning.

Ex-Atlanta Contributor. Big Brother Headquarters, at 56 Peachtree street, yesterday reported that gifts and money had been pouring in all week in a steady, if thin, stream.

In yesterday morning's mail was a letter and a cash donation from Howard Merk, of Chattanooga, a

Addressed to Howard Haire, it read:

"I guess you boys have about gotten everything all lined up for next Sunday, and I certainly wish I could be there in person. But as you doubtless know, I will be there in spirit, and hope that this will be another banner year. 'I can't let this year pass without helping the Big Brother campaign, so enclosed find a money order, for you to cash and give to the proper party.'

K. M. MURCHISON DIES IN NEW YORK

Noted Architect Was Brother of Mrs. Frank Ellis, of Atlanta.

Kenneth Mackenzie Murchison, 66, one of the outstanding architects in the country, died yesterday morning at his home in New York.

He was the brother of Mrs. Frank Ellis, of No. 1 Cherokee road, and was well known among members of his profession in Atlanta and throughout the south.

Mr. Murchison was a native of New York city. He was educated at Columbia and the Ecole de Beaux Arts, Paris. He designed many outstanding buildings in this country and in Cuba, including the D. L. & W. terminals at Hoboken, N. J., and Buffalo, N. Y., the Baltimore Union Station, Jacksonville station terminal, the Munson Line building, New York; the Havana Union station and the New Colonial hotel at Nassau.

Mr. Murchison served as a captain of engineers during the World War. He was decorated as an officer of the Academy and Legion of Honor (France). He was a member of the Society of Beaux Arts Architects, past president of the Architectural League of New York and a member of several engineering societies and of the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers.

Funeral services will be held today in the Cathedral of Garden City, which he designed, with Bishop Styles and Dean Kinsolving officiating. Burial will be at Flushing, Long Island.

RHODES NOMINEES FACE FINALS TODAY

Oral Examinations Will Start at 9 O'Clock, Take Most of Day.

Twelve candidates from six states will gather here this morning for the final grueling oral examination which will select four of the group as winners of the coveted Rhodes scholarships from the southern district.

Georgia's representatives, winners in the preliminary "battle of wits" conducted here by the state committee Thursday, are Morris Abram, of Fitzgerald, a student at the University of Georgia, and Wilfred McKenzie, of Montezuma, who attends Duke University.

Final judging will begin at 9 o'clock at the Biltmore hotel and is expected to require most of the day.

The committee in charge is composed of E. M. Moise, of Atlanta, secretary; General C. P. Summerall, president of The Citadel; Professor C. F. Zeek, of Vanderbilt University; Professor Harvie Branscombe, of Duke, and I. F. Belser, of Columbia, S. C.

Other finalists competing are: Florida: Richard B. Bernard, of Jacksonville, University of Virginia, and Alfred C. Ulmer Jr., of Jacksonville, Princeton University.

Tennessee: Ramsey Potts Jr., of Memphis, University of North Carolina, and Bernard Breyer, of Nashville, Vanderbilt University. South Carolina: Mallory Smith, of Greenville, Furman University, and Monroe Spears, of Darlington, Princeton University.

Virginia: Luke Harvey Poe Jr., of Richmond, and Edgar F. Shannon Jr., of Lexington.

North Carolina: Ernest Craig, of El Paso, Texas, University of North Carolina, and Archibald McMillan, of Wake Forest, Harvard University.

Candidates are permitted to apply either from their home states or from the states in which they have attended school for two years or more. Seven similar eliminations are to be held today in various parts of the country. In all, 32 winners are to be selected from a field which originally contained nearly 600.

JAPANESE TO FETE EDITOR OF 'COTTON'

Robert Philip Leaves Tomorrow for New York.

Robert Philip, editor of "Cotton" and an outstanding figure in textile circles, leaves tomorrow for New York where he will attend a dinner meeting on Monday night to be given at the Nippon Club by T. Inouye and H. Yoshida, well known in Japanese circles.

Featuring the dinner will be a discussion of the textile industry in Japan, and the effects of the new tariff on the textile industry in Japan, and the effects of the new tariff on the textile industry in Japan.

Dr. Claudius T. Murchison and Harry Bailey, of New York, who also were members of the group visiting Japan when the quotas were drawn up, will attend Monday night's dinner.

Plant-to-Prosper Sweepstakes Winners Named in Midsouth States

H. L. Majure, 48-year-old Poplar Grove, Ark., farmer, this week was awarded the 1938 Plant-to-Prosper sweepstakes championship of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee. He won the $500 award and the trophy given by the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

DR. NEWTON LAUDS PAGEANT RESPONSE

Thanks All Who Have Aided in Presenting Civic Christmas Event.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, and general chairman of the citizens' committee sponsoring the civic Christmas pageant to be given tonight in the city auditorium yesterday thanked all who had aided the undertaking.

"Atlanta's famed spirit of cooperation was never more evident than in planning the pageant," he said. "When asked by the mayor and city council to take the chairmanship of this committee, I spoke to a number of friends to find out if they would help put on a real pageant. Their response gave me full assurance that the idea was a good one and that Atlanta wanted such an occasion. From the beginning we have met with increasing enthusiasm from every quarter."

"I think one thing that has appealed is that there is no commercialism involved. No one is making a penny out of it. The co-operation of Eugene Bergman, WPA drama consultant, and J. Lee Harne Jr., WPA area recreation supervisor, took care of the important question of a director and manager for many details incident to so vast an undertaking."

"The school people, glee clubs, church groups, dramatic groups, Boy Scouts, radio and the public generally have co-operated 100 per cent. It has been a great privilege to work at such a big job with such fine people."

"I wish I could adequately describe the beauty and the charm of this pageant. I cannot. You will have to see it and hear it for yourselves. The lighting effects are tremendous. The costumes are really beautiful. The dramatic effect will delight everyone. Mr. Bergman has made a wonderful selection of scenes from the Bible and when you see and hear the pageant you will join me in saying that once again Atlanta has done something worth while."

The pageant, entitled "The Divine Promise," will be given at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and at 8:15 o'clock Monday night.

BIBLE TABERNACLE TO OPEN COURSES

Interdenominational Body Sponsors Classes Here.

The Bible Tabernacle, an interdenominational organization established for intensive evangelism and Bible conference work, will inaugurate regular courses in Bible study at 685 Piedmont avenue, N. E., it was announced yesterday.

The work of the Tabernacle will be supervised by an executive committee composed of W. L. Hardin, J. L. Cook, T. B. Ham, Dr. C. H. Currens, E. S. Norton, W. M. Maynard, William L. Owings, W. L. Hardin Jr., W. T. Woodward and Charles Thompson.

Regular Bible study classes will be conducted throughout the week, with a prayer meeting on Wednesday nights and a Sunday school and workshop service on Sundays. Conducting services will be the Rev. P. C. James, who has been associated with the Southern Evangelistic Association and the Atlanta Bible Institute for the last six years.

ATLANTAN GIVES YEAR'S SUPPORT

years in Atlanta, being employed by a large company. Though he had never earned a princely salary, he did make enough to keep his family safe from hunger and cold.

Mr. T. worked on his job until they made him quit. They told him he had tuberculosis. Now, he lies in bed every hour of the day—and his family has not a cent of income.

He exhausted every resource before he would consent to receiving outside aid, and he is determined to become independent as soon as he can. He was afraid, until yesterday, that his daughters, Rosalie, 15, and June, 10, would have to be taken out of school. He hadn't the money to pay them clothes. His youngest, Lois, who is 5, goes to kindergarten. Mrs. T. is searching for work but she is untrained, and employment for unskilled workers is hard to find. Also, she has to care for her husband.

12 Months of Safety.

Worry that has kept Mr. T. at his wife's end, retarding his chance of recovery, was swept away when the anonymous donor pledged the Ten Opportunity fund the whole amount needed to assure Mr. T. of safety during the 12 months he must stay abed.

The money will pay for Mr. T.'s special diet and will insure his daughters being able to remain in school.

The $60 every month which this worthwhile family is going to receive, as the result of the anonymous giver's desire to help promising families is going to mean that this family will have a better than fair chance to re-establish itself—to become independent again and not public relief charges.

Families that show promise of being able, with a little timely help, to overcome their difficulties and earn their own way are the ones The Constitution presents to the Ten Opportunity fund, the spirit of giving is what matters.

So, everyone is urged to contribute to the cause of helping reconstruct worthy families. Every penny you give helps the family you designate. Send your donations, no matter how little, to H. H. Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution. He is treasurer of the Ten Opportunities fund.

were temporary. Hardly would he get a job, before notice came he was being laid off. It was not entirely his fault. Economic conditions were largely to blame. But he became discouraged and began drinking heavily which is certainly no way to retain independence. Finally he became ill, and walked out on his wife and children.

That left Mrs. N. with the entire burden on her frail shoulders. Earlier this year she was dispossessed from her home. She had no one to turn to. Roger and Sally Ann were starving. Every bit of money Mrs. N. could get went to buy food for these two little mouths. She was starving, too.

Temporary help finally was obtained for this mother and her two children. She was established in two small rooms, and some food was given to her. It kept the three from death. But Mrs. N. deserves a better fate than direct charity. She wants to be the provider. Before she was married, she worked and had a good record. Officials of the manufacturing plant where she formerly worked say they will take her back as soon as they can.

Mrs. N. is hopeful. But, meantime she must have help to feed her children. She isn't very strong now, and she must regain her strength. Mrs. N. needs only $28 a month—very likely for just a few months, to give her a sense of security—and keep her little family from hunger. Won't you help?

QUAKES RECORDED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(UP)—Two earthquakes today were recorded on Fordham University seismographs. The first, at 11:40 p. m. (Atlanta time) was believed to have been 10,000 miles from New York. The second, recorded at 1:05 p. m., was described as "much nearer" by Fordham scientists, but the exact distance was not determined.

Medicine Holds No Terror For This Youngster

Little Patsy Ann Green is wondering today why grown-ups make such a fuss about taking medicine.

Patsy Ann is the 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Green, of 644 Yorkshire road, N. E. On an exploratory trip through her parents' home Thursday night, Patsy Ann came across a bottle filled with small, brown, oval-shaped tablets.

Quickly she slipped one in her mouth. It tasted good, so she emptied the contents of the bottle, which contained 100 cod liver oil tablets. Her mother, passing, noticed what the child had done.

Alarmed, she began to administer antidotes, but the child seemed to suffer no ill effects from the tablets. Yesterday she was up and around as usual, none the worse for her medicinal experience.

S. C. LIABILITIES CUT. COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 16.—(UP)—The South Carolina budget committee today announced it had slashed the state's liabilities more than $1,000,000 for this fiscal year.

NO ACTION TAKEN IN SOUTHERN CASE

Police Committee Holds No Hearing as Officer Has Received Pension.

Police committee of city council ruled last night that action of the police pension board in granting a pension to B. J. Southern, former policeman suspended on charges of being intoxicated, had taken the case out of their hands.

"Since Southern already has been granted a pension and is no longer an active member of the police department, we have nothing before us," Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman, told members of the committee.

Southern applied for a pension only a short time before Chief Hornsby issued an order suspending him. Captain Neal Ellis, member of the pension board, told the committee Southern had served the department for 25 years and was in good standing at the time he applied for his $60-a-month pension.

Mayor Hartsfield said he thought it was a bad practice for the pension board to set such a precedent, since the members might sometimes have to rule on a more serious offense.

The committee approved a resolution introduced by Councilman John T. Marler asking that trackless trolleys to College Park, East Point and Hapeville be re-routed to follow Park street from Peters to Lee and through West End. He said such a change would eliminate two bad turns.

Marler's resolution providing for a three-way traffic light at Peters, Park and Whitehall street also was approved. At the request of George L. Simons, city parks manager, the committee voted to place a caution sign on Mozley drive at Laurel avenue.

G.M.A. CADETS LEAVE FOR YULE VACATION

Georgia Military Academy at College Park closed for the Christmas holiday vacation yesterday afternoon when more than 350 cadets and teachers departed for their homes in many states and several foreign countries. Classes will be resumed January 5. The final formal parade and band concert were held Thursday afternoon during which an automobile was presented Colonel J. C. Woodward, founder of the institution.

RESCUED FROM FIRE. NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(UP)—Firemen carried a score of panic-stricken women and children to safety from a burning five-story tenement on East 19th street today, using extension ladders.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 17, 1938.

THOSE WAR DEBTS

It is doubtful if there is any international problem more completely misunderstood by the average man than the recurring question of the debts owed by other countries to this, since the days of the World War.

The nonpayment of these debts has not only proven fertile topic for facile humorists of all types, but has been seized upon by demagogues, both political and journalistic, as effective fuel for maintaining their pet prejudicial fires.

The ability of such demagogues to turn this situation to selfish account rests upon the conception of the debts by those ignorant of the fundamentals of international finance and trade. Such people can conceive of a debt only in the terms of the IOU for five bucks that Tom owes Bill, around the corner. If Tom doesn't pay, he is simply a defaulter on his obligations, proper subject for scorn and condemnation by honest men. And the same judgment and standards are applied to the debtor nations, as is applied to Tom.

The truth of the war debts is they are unpaid because of economic conditions beyond the control of the debtor nations.

In the first place, the conditions of the obligations include the requirement that they be paid in gold. With the bulk of the world's supply of gold already in this country, there is no gold with which to pay. Also, there is already too much gold in the United States. More, even if it could be sent over, would simply add to the domestic financial problems over here.

It must also be remembered that gold, of itself, is valueless. It is only a device for measuring the worth of currencies, to set the relative values of the dollar, the pound, the franc, the peso, etc. To create real international values, there must be commerce between nations. This commerce, while its mathematical value is based upon gold, for convenience, is fundamentally a question of barter. One nation, to be able to buy the goods of another, must be able to sell its own goods.

The debtor nations, if they are to pay the United States, must surmount the tariff barrier raised by this country, so they may sell their goods here. Only thus can they establish credits in the banking houses of this country with which to purchase the gold needed to meet the installments on the debts.

The recent signing of the trade treaty between this country and Great Britain may help considerably to overcome this tariff barrier difficulty.

In addition to all these considerations, it must be remembered that a large proportion of the total debt today is merely the result of devaluation of gold and bookkeeping. It is estimated, for instance, that the debt of Great Britain has increased more than 50 per cent solely on account of the change in gold values and currency standards. This country has, so far, refused to consider any adjustment of this bookkeeping amount.

Taking into full consideration the gold situation, the effect of payment of the debts on the commerce and industry and finance of this country, and the economic results to the entire world, it is probable all would gain if the debts were forgotten.

And there would be precedent, from this side of the Atlantic, for such a solution.

Not long after the Revolutionary War the young government of the United States consolidated old debts to Great Britain and assumed the obligation in full. It was stipulated that this debt be paid in silver. But when time for payment came, the United States had no silver with which to pay.

Washington, Jefferson and Hamilton explained the situation to the British government and the debt was, rightfully, cancelled.

It would contribute to better economic condition as well as remove a source of recurring irritation and demagogic ammunition, both abroad and in this country, if adjustment or intelligent settlement could be made, today, of the "war debts."

FRENCH DEMOCRACY ENDURES

If the people of any major nation can be said to have so far weathered the storm of class antagonisms without losing faith in the republican form of government, or their love of individual freedom, it is the people of France. Bounded on the north by Nazi Germany and on the south and east by revolutionary Spain and Fascist Italy, it may well be considered a notable achievement to have steered a steady course in the face of disconcerting winds blowing from so many directions at the same time.

The accomplishment looms as even more remarkable if it is remembered the fight between Fascism and Communism is being waged on the field of battle just beyond the Pyrenees—to all practical purposes on the French doorstep. Every minute of every hour of the day propaganda in favor of one side or the other—Communism or Fascism—is being fed to the people from beyond the borders of France, as well as within the country itself by certain segments of an uncensored press. But propaganda, no matter how distasteful, is considered less harmful than interfering with the freedom of speech or an untrammelled press.

So far democracy—the love of individual freedom—so prevalent among the common people of France, has prevailed. It is still held preferable to other, so-called efficient, forms of government, even in the face of threatened aggression from without or economic disruption from within. The people realize that once the Fascist or Communist moose is fastened upon them there is no withdrawing from its strangling influence save with the spilling of oceans of their own blood.

It should not be forgotten that France has already been through the fire of revolution; has suffered almost as no other nation has suffered in attaining its freedom, in forging a balanced, equitable government, satisfying to the temperament of its people. No more individualistic person lives in the world than the peasant of France. He abhors the planned life. He will tolerate no encroachment upon his personal liberty. Unlike the German or Italian, who seems to thrive on regimentation, he realizes that once liberty is given up, it cannot be retrieved except at tremendous sacrifice.

The French people can always be counted upon to fight among themselves. They have always done so. But whenever their individual freedom is threatened, either from within or without, they can be also depended upon to fight to the last ditch to preserve it.

TWO GIFTS.

The finger of coincidence was at work in Atlanta this week. On the same day two outstanding citizens, representing separate, though inextricably linked activities, were honored by their friends and associates. In each case the honor found its material expression in the gift of an automobile.

Dean Raimundo de Ovies, of the Cathedral of St. Philip, was one recipient and Colonel J. C. Woodward, commandant of the Georgia Military Academy, was the other. A beloved churchman and a distinguished educator.

The church and the school are inextricably united in the entire story of man's emergence from barbarity toward knowledge and culture. One is tributary to the other and neither can long exist, or evolve towards greater achievement, without the other.

The student of secular knowledge cannot avoid the awakening of an interest in the matters of religion and the church. On the other hand, the sincere follower of religion must, if his devotion means anything more than elemental emotionalism, turn to study of both religious and secular history and literature.

It is, in fact, axiomatic that the devout and sincere church member is eager, always, for greater knowledge along all lines. Similarly, the non-church member, if a student, cannot avoid fascinated interest in the records of the church, even from the days of dim antiquity.

The two professions, that of churchman and educator, go hand in hand as leaders in the march toward better day when man becomes in fact the cultured, educated, intelligent and understanding being of which he is capable.

The true religious leader is recreant to his trust if he is not, also, an educator, while the educator who ignores or scorns religion, is but a false prophet, doomed to failure and bitter disillusionment.

HEALTH ON THE FARM

(From The Dallas Morning News.)
Despite their fresh air, exercise and supposed wholesome food, farm people often have less resistance to contagious diseases than do those who live in cities. And, in most of the last two decades, farm income has been so low that many thousands of rural families have had to go without needed medical attention. Remedy of this situation is the aim of the Farm Security Administration's new setup for low-cost medical care. At least 80,000 rural families in 18 states are expected to benefit from this health program. The plan already is in operation in 56 Arkansas counties and five Ohio counties, and it is to be extended at once to the whole states of North and South Dakota. Under this scheme, a whole farm family can obtain medical, dental and hospital care for $2 a month—and may borrow the $2 from the Farm Security Administration if necessary.

Opposition from organized medicine is not anticipated, since approval of state medical associations is sought before the FSA plan is established. The money is placed in the hands of special medical corporations in each state, which allocate funds for hospitals, physicians, dentists, nurses and pharmacists. In restoring health and morale, this program should go far toward enabling impoverished farm families to get back on their feet economically.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

WALLACE WOOS FOES WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace is his ancient enemies within the New Deal. One or two of his confidential subordinates have already made frank overtures to the lieutenants of Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes. Harry Hopkins has even been asked to lunch at the Agriculture Department. If Wallace has his way, the battles of Iowa and the Soil Conservation Service will be forgotten, and almost universal peace will reign.

The spectacle is at once instructive and faintly comic. It illustrates the strangely haphazard inter-relationships of the President's chief aids. It underlines the ludicrous aspects of the bureaucracy. But, like so many Wallace moves, this one is dictated by hard common sense. Such an unholy war of the farm program will engulf Wallace and his department. Wallace will need all the help he can get in congress. No one is better qualified to give it than the dispensers of public pay, Harry Hopkins with his projects, and Harold Ickes with his public works. Wallace will also need the full moral backing of the New Deal. No one can more certainly assure him of it than Hopkins and Ickes, the most conspicuous leaders of the New Deal group.

INTRA-MURAL FIGHTS The Wallace agents take a soft and sensible tone. "The farm program need not be farmers. Now that we're in trouble, let's all stand together." But the battles of Iowa and the Soil Conservation Service are hard to forget.

Since the famous Iowa primary, from which the secretary of agriculture held so notably aloof, the New Dealers have been bitterly angry with Wallace. Wallace himself has cherished some resentment, for the strongest pressure was put on him to back the White House man, Representative Otha D. Wearin, against Senator Guy M. Gillette. Even the President himself was mobilized. Yet Wallace held firm. Now he is taking the line (which is probably perfectly correct) that it would have been foolish for him to intervene in Iowa, since the fight was lost anyway.

Although he was a chief sponsor of the Iowa venture, Harry Hopkins may well end by accepting the Wallace olive branch. For all his intense enthusiasms, he is a man who takes events pretty much as they come. Harold Ickes is quite another sort of fellow.

The battle of the Soil Conservation Service occurred years ago, when Wallace and Rex Tugwell urged Ickes to take a Florida vacation for the sake of his health, and then persuaded the President to order soil conservation to agriculture as soon as Ickes was safely on the train. Ever since, the secretaries of agriculture and interior have eyed one another warily, like two dogs wanting the same bone. Time and again, Ickes has attempted congressional raids on forestry and other agricultural bureaus. Time and again, Wallace has snatched at the grazing lands and national parks, which are still in the Ickes domain. It will need a minor miracle to bring the two men together again.

PRICES AND SURPLUS Hitherto, Henry Wallace paddled his own canoe rather successfully. Like Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., he was shielded from the friendly but fiery criticism of the average New Dealer. Therefore, Wallace seldom suffered from the incursions of unofficial policy-makers. Until last spring, he kept the farmers reasonably happy, and that strengthened his hand.

By last spring, the Wallace prospects were so good that he was riding on the crest of a healthy presidential boom. Then the program was cracked by low prices and huge surpluses. The presidential boom subsided. Splendid isolation became a trifle uncomfortable. There is no question that Wallace needs help now, although Hopkins and Ickes certainly can't save him single-handed. Since the most popular alternate farm plans are the purest snake oil, it's to be hoped, at least, that Wallace will get all the support the administration can give him.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

When some circumstance

To ingrain principle

Touches your life,

Does it bring

Physical,

As well as mental

And spiritual

Indisposition?

Does it cause

That tight sensation,

As of indignation,

Within you?

It does such things

To me.

Mr. Wells

Is Out Again.

I have just finished reading a magazine article by H. G. Wells, in which the distinguished writer and dilettante sociologist attempts to answer the question "What will happen to the Jews?" And I must admit he's got me puzzled.

You see many of the arguments

he uses are of two things:

they are either too far advanced for a person educated as I, or they don't make sense anyway.

Mr. Wells seems to blame the present plight of the Jews on the Jews themselves. What's more, he seems to be irritated at them for being—and remaining—Jews. He argues that it has been a mistake for the Jews to remain a separate race through all the centuries, that they should have encouraged themselves to "blend" with other peoples. And that other people happened to be living among, many years ago. And then, of course, there would really be no Jews today. Just a few, indistinguishable traces of Jewish blood in the general population. And if there were no Jews there would, of course, be no Jewish problem.

Simple, isn't it?

Is Patriotism

A Crime?

One gathers, reading Mr. Wells, that the worst of all crimes is patriotism, love of country and pride in race. Now that is contrary to everything I have been told, all my life. I am proud of two countries, in fact. My place of nativity, and this United States.

And I have supposed that other peoples felt a similar pride, that

Jews are proud of their Jewish descent, that Germans are proud of their Teuton blood—even though they may be acting crazy

just at present—that a Frenchman is proud he is a Frenchman. And so on.

But Mr. Wells says this is all wrong. That it is what breeds war. And that we are all doomed to one war after another, each worse than the last, until we ex-pride in nation and in race? Can't that pride be turned to the arts of civilization and of progress, instead of destroying itself through the arts of mutual slaughter, of war?

It seems to me it can.

And it also seems to me that the world will be a happier, more monotonous place if the Jews, and the rest of us, take literally the Wellian admonition to "forget they are Jews and remember that they are men."

It smacks to me of dreary future if the world is to be a place of men, as he says, "common humanity in one large and varied world order."

I have always understood that, even in Heaven, there are Cherubim as well as Seraphim, and that some of the Angels stand on the left hand of the throne, in distinction from those who stand on the right.

Maybe Mr. Wells is right. But I, for one, do not believe the Jewish problem could be solved by world-wide adoption of "Abie's Irish Rose" as the road to eternal peace for Jews—or any others.

Battle of Ackia.

Henry B. Collins Jr., Smithsonian Institution archeologist, is now engaged in a survey near Tupelo, Miss., of the approximate site of the battle of Ackia, where the French under the Sieur de Bienville were decisively defeated on May 20, 1736, by the Chickasaw Indians.

This three-hour engagement, in which the French chief was engaged in a survey near Tupelo, Miss., of the approximate site of the battle of Ackia, where the French under the Sieur de Bienville were decisively defeated on May 20, 1736, by the Chickasaw Indians.

The Chickasaws had been hostile to the French and friendly to the English. Bienville had planned to crush them in a vice between his own troops and a French force under General d'Ardelet, which was moving southward from the "Illinois territory." The latter never arrived and, it was later learned, it had been cut to pieces by a Chickasaw ambush. The Indians had taken many prisoners and burned some of them at the stake.

Henceforth, the unconquered Chickasaw constitute a serious obstacle to French progress from their gulf colonies to the north and westward. Otherwise they might have established a continuous fortified line west of the Appalachians between Canada and the gulf which would have been very difficult for the English to penetrate.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Fostering NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general and, next to J. Edgar Hoover, the best self-advertiser in the Department of Justice, recently propounded an idea which may be admirable as fostering humility but calls for a challenge, nevertheless. Mr. Arnold says advertising promotes monopoly when a company spends more money than a rival dealing in the same product or service. If the second company decides to advertise line for line against the first, that, says he, runs up the cost of distribution. Otherwise, the first one tends to monopolize the business. Well, modesty is a very nice trait, but I disbelieve that Mr. Arnold ever made a practice of telling people "Don't hire me, as I am an awful slob and a sure thing to ball up any job entrusted to me." And, although I have listened to most of President Roosevelt's radio chats, I have yet to hear him say that the New Deal has been a deplorable mess and urge the citizens to vote Republican next time around. On the contrary, from the professional technique in Mr. Arnold's own publicity I take it that he is a first-class circus man himself or commands the services of one or more ballyhoo experts, paid out of the people's taxes, to 24-sheet him before the public and in the normal course of things will acquire a reputation with a high cash value.

The publicity that lawyers derive from public office is one of the recognized compensations and many of them make a temporary sacrifice to prosecute brothel keepers or smash gambling or narcotic rings, as we say in print, knowing that when they leave the people's employ their names will be more or less famous and their services in greater demand than before and at better prices.

Anonymous We never see Mr. Arnold designated

Never as No. 6 or his outgivings attributed merely to the Department of Justice, nor does the mention harmonize with the engagement of "a thousand paid publicity agents daily and hourly to praise and color and sell the official acts" of the administration of which he is a part. This publicity, incidentally, is from a little address about morality in public office, delivered several months ago by Herbert Hoover, who further accused this publicity staff of polluting thought "with the drugs of propaganda."

A public man who mentions the word "morality" in connection with the public office or trust in Washington nowadays is apt to feel a little embarrassed, like a decent youth admitting in the company of a lot of raucous and incorrigible bums that he not only thinks chastity still exists in some girls but rather approves the same.

Mr. Roosevelt, enjoying the services of "a thousand press agents," many of them disguised under other classifications but all paid publically, from a place of denials and fallacies of his political party, and praise its works regardless, is inclined to sneer at "freedom of the press" as a phrase invoked to conjure up bogies, and the proposition advanced by Mr. Arnold contains the germ of press regulation by some lawyer-politician or any embittered failure at the newspaper business who may be taken on in Washington as moderator of advertising with power to average actual wrongs suffered at the hands of editors and publishers and heal the sting of his own incompetence.

DEKALB JURYMEN ASK DEPORTATION FOR 3,500,000

Presentments Charge About That Many Are on Relief, Urge Georgia Legislators To Act.

Deportation of 3,500,000 aliens in the United States said to have taken no steps to become naturalized citizens was demanded yesterday by the DeKalb county grand jury as it filed its presentments with Judge James C. Davis, of the Stone Mountain superior court circuit.

Coupled with the demands that all criminal or destitute aliens be deported at once, the grand jury urged Georgia congressmen and senators to lead the fight.

Pointing out that about one-third of the ten million unnaturalized immigrants are on relief rolls, grand jurors were insistent that immigration be suspended for at least ten years or until such time as every able-bodied American is provided gainful employment. The presentments set forth that aliens hold about 3,500,000 jobs.

As a further bar to indiscriminate immigration, the jury recommended that failure of an immigrant to apply for naturalization within 12 months of his arrival shall be basis for deportation. All those now here would be deported after six months if they failed to begin citizenship proceedings if recommendations of the grand jury are followed.

Subversive teaching also was attacked in the presentments, the jury hitting at professors, teachers and others "who have no patriotism."

The jury also opposed any further increase in DeKalb county taxes, approved salary schedules for county employees as submitted by Commissioner Charles A. Matthews, and recommended that a drive be launched in the county against the illegal operation of pin ball machines.

Closer supervision of real estate developments by the commissioner also was recommended because of the rapid growth of the county.

ACCOUNTING OFFICE LAMBASTED BY TVA

Controller Charges Incompetency, Irresponsibility and Inaccuracy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority turned loose a flood of acrid words today against another agency of the federal government—the general accounting office.

Replying to testimony of accounting office auditors before the congressional committee investigating TVA, E. L. Kohler, the TVA controller, accused the office of incompetency, irresponsibility and inaccuracy. Spokesmen for the accounting office had accused TVA of obstructing efforts to audit its accounts.

"If interference must still be alleged," Kohler told the committee, "let the tables be turned. Mentioning names freely, he attacked former Comptroller General J. R. McCar, Acting Comptroller General T. N. Elliott and a number of subordinates.

He said the accounting office had made no "real audit" but had presented a "disorderly miscellany," adding that most of the objections to TVA accounting practices had resulted from "superficial observations that would not have been raised by a professional auditor."

MILITARY TRAINING FOR CCC IS URGED

Resolution Voted by Atlanta Chapter of Order.

Atlanta Chapter, Military Order of the World War, has passed a resolution advocating military training for members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, E. G. Hitt, commander, said last night.

Hitt said the resolution was passed "because America should not again make the mistake of sending soldiers to needless death and wounds due to the lack of time to provide adequate military training."

The resolution recommended that CCC enrollees should be subject to draft in time of war, on the same basis as other citizens.

Garner Will Meet Roosevelt 'Face-to-Face' Today For First Time in 6 Months To Map Legislation

Crucial Conference May Help Decide Future Policy of New Dealers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(UP)—Vice President John N. Garner will meet President Roosevelt, whom he calls "the boss," face to face for the first time in six months tomorrow in a White House conference which may shape the future course of the New Deal and influence Democratic party plans for the 1940 elections.

Democracy's No. 1 and No. 2 leaders meet primarily to discuss the administration's legislative program for the 76th congress. It is so indisputably fused with the party's hopes and strategy for the 1940 Presidential fight that experts conclude a general political discussion is inevitable.

Top flight Democratic senators say privately that the party's fate in 1940 will be written by the new congress which meets on January 3. It is not known whether Garner agrees with this viewpoint because he does not give newspaper interviews. But a newspaper correspondent who enjoys his confidence has portrayed him as desiring a "middle-of-the-road" legislative program with emphasis on recovery instead of reform.

If this picture is an accurate one, "Cactus Jack" may be expected to point it in vivid colors tomorrow. He is personally fond of Mr. Roosevelt and has been in sympathy with some of the New Deal's reforms. But he is not a "yes man" and is one of few administration big wigs who consistently and punctually has recorded his opposition to various Roosevelt policies.

Protested Bitterly.
He is said to have complained bitterly to the President last year that the New Deal's extremely friendly labor policies had inspired the wave of sit-down strikes and to have urged Mr. Roosevelt to condemn them. He presided at the official execution of the supreme court enlargement bill and was not in sympathy with the chief executive's ill-fated purge of unsympathetic Democratic legislators.

He was in close touch last session with a small group of Democratic conservative senators who held opposition to the more drastic New Deal reforms. There were unconfirmed reports that he wielded the considerable influence which he enjoys in the house, over which he presided as speaker before his election as vice president, to scuttle the President's government reorganization bill.

New Dealers Resentful.
The so-called "palace guard" of New Dealers who are said to have conceived the primary "purge" of Garner's activities. They see him as the leader of Mr. Roosevelt's opposition in congress rather than as his chief lieutenant. They regard the ruddy-faced Texan as a potential candidate for the presidential nomination two years hence or as maneuvering to be in a position to name that candidate. They are portrayed as urging the President to ignore the party setback in the November elections and pursue liberal objectives with new vigor.

The tenor of the legislative program will tell the story. Congressional Democrats who have talked to Mr. Roosevelt since the Republican victory in November say he is amenable to revision of New Deal reform laws and will offer a "middle ground" program. They point to his willingness to permit his congressional leaders to achieve the objectives of government reorganization through a series of bills instead of an omnibus measure as he demanded at the last session.

On the other side of the ledger, however, is Mr. Roosevelt's recent speech at Chapel Hill, N. C., in which he indicated that he did not interpret the November election results as a blow to liberalism. He reaffirmed his administration's determination to seek liberal goals and said the New Deal "is going places."

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the rights of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances..."

It may be, as some believe, that the bill of rights, which is the very heart of Americanism, is less respected in the south than in any other part of the country. But to the credit of southern newspapers it should be said that an increasing number of them is joined in defense of those rights. Few, indeed, are the southern newspapers which fail to see an inconsistency in being concerned for freedom of the press and not being concerned equally for those other freedoms—of speech, and religion, and assembly—promised in the same bill.

Listen, for current example, to Editor C. H. Phillips of the (Meridian, Miss.) Courier-News: "Of all times in our history now is the time to read again our bill of rights and think of what it means. It has taken centuries and thousands of lives to achieve these elemental and should they be lost it would take thousands of years to re-establish them. Freedom stands only so long as free men make it stand against the winds of intolerance and abuse..."

For saying that "automobiles can take you to so many places in comparison with which home is a bore" we are taken gently but firmly to task by Captain J. Wilmer Benjamin of the Greenbrier (W. Va.) Military school. He quotes Edgar Guest at us, and says we should say "house," not "home," is a bore, because it "takes a heap of" living to make a house a home. But don't shoot until you see the whites of our eyes, Captain! We are your friend. We think it is terrible that so many people find home a bore. We rather hold the automobile responsible.

The Fessifern School at Hendersonville, N. C., has inaugurated a course in "charm and personality." From the subjects announced for this course we gather that charm and personality depend upon (1) a "strong, healthy body" and steady nerves, (2) a "well-modulated voice" and an ability to converse attractively, (3) character, (4) a well-developed mind, (5) familiarity with the arts and sciences, and (6) graciousness.

The greatest of these, if this column may vote, is graciousness. But can it be taught? Isn't it something too close to the heart for instruction? At one of Nino Martini's recent concerts in the south a few people who could not obtain seats in the auditorium were seated behind the singer in a rear corner of the stage. They looked rather forlorn and lost there and their view of the singer was limited to the back of his neck. But nobody would have bothered about them if the artist himself hadn't. As he came out for one of his programmed songs and walked to the center of the stage he made a little gesture of explanation and apology to the great audience in front of him, turned his back on it altogether, then to face the group on the stage and proceeded to sing to it alone.

He sang to the dozen or more there with all the fervor, attention and gesture he had been giving the thousands upon whom he now turned his back. And the whole audience loved him for the fancy and heart that persuaded him to such an act of grace. Nobody can quite define or program or play-act graciousness, but everybody can identify it, and everybody knows it the greatest of all components of the thing called charm.

JURORS CONVICT BUT URGE LENIENCY

Suspended Sentences Given Burglary Suspects.

After a Fulton county superior court jury had found Robert Brownlee, negro, and his accomplice, Charles Lewis, guilty of burglary, it filed into Judge Hugh M. Dorsey's court yesterday pleading for leniency.

Brownlee was convicted of breaking into two groceries and of receiving stolen goods. He appeared for sentencing.

The jurors, headed by their foreman, R. L. Chapman, as spokesman, pleaded for the defendant.

Judge Dorsey acquiesced, sentencing Brownlee to seven years suspended. Lewis then entered a plea of guilty to three burglary charges and was sentenced to serve nine years suspended.

Eighteen prisoners, including four white men, yesterday were transferred from Fulton tower to Taitnall prison to begin serving their terms on felony convictions in Fulton county courts.

Among them were two negroes under life sentence. They are Owen Mapp and Willie Green Hines. Another group of 23 misdemeanor prisoners was transferred to the Fulton county public works camps.

LEAF ACT REVISION HINGES ON BALLOT

Burley and Dark Type Tobacco Growers in 14 States Vote Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The possibility of congressional revision of the administration's crop control program for tobacco hinged, farm leaders said today, on the outcome of two farmer referenda tomorrow on marketing quotas for next year.

In 14 southern and midwestern states, approximately 250,000 burley and 75,000 dark-type tobacco farmers will be given an opportunity to cast secret ballots saying whether they want 1939 crop sales restricted. The purpose of such restrictions would be to keep price-depressing surpluses off the market. This year's crops are being sold under quotas.

Before quotas can become effective, two-thirds of the growers of each type of tobacco voting must approve.

In similar elections last Saturday, producers of flue-cured tobacco and rice rejected quotas, while cotton farmers approved them.

The states in which the burley referendum will be held are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. The dark-type vote will be held in Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

Georgia will have only a small voice in determining the fate of marketing quotas on the 1939 burley tobacco crop. There are only about 300 burley growers in Georgia, all in about a score of north Georgia counties.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

A NEW COMMANDMENT.

Sunday's lesson, Matthew 5:43-48; 22:34-40; John 13:34-35; 15:12-14, is a new commandment—Christ's new Commandment—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great Commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." And then He goes on to comment, "On these two Commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

John's statement of the new Commandment is stronger than that just quoted from Matthew, by this much, that John quotes Jesus as saying, "A new Commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another, as I have loved you." That last phrase puts it on the highest possible ground—"as I have loved you."

I think we have in this lesson the one and only ground for the solution of the world's ever-darkening picture. We have tried everything else, and everything else has failed. Force has failed. Education has failed. Diplomacy has failed. Morality has failed. "Love never faileth."

The question emerges, Are we willing to take God at His word? Would we dare to risk the clear teachings of this lesson? Would we risk it right here in Georgia? In America? In our world? That raises, of course, another question, Who is my neighbor? In another notable passage, the tenth chapter of Luke, Jesus answers this question in the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Are we willing to take Him at His word? That is the question that haunts me as I study again this lesson. We do not need more laws. We do not need more guns. We do not need more money. These have their rightful place, but none of them nor all of them have power to save. What we need is the love of Christ in our hearts, giving us the right outlook, the right appraisal of things present and things to come, the right appraisal of things material and things spiritual. Such an outlook can only come when He reigns in our hearts—when as Savior and Lord He guides our thoughts and sustains our acts.

This new Commandment of Jesus embraces all the Commandments. If through personal faith we take Him as Savior and Lord, then can we humbly claim the assurance of the inspired promise, "We are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works."

SEES THIRD TERM.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Senator Edward R. Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, said today he believed President Roosevelt will seek a third term as the candidate of a third party in 1940.

MACON JAYCEES BACK DELINQUENTS' SCHOOL

MACON, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Macon Junior Chamber of Commerce voted last night to endorse a movement to establish a training school for delinquent negro girls on a site near here.

Grounds and buildings, located about five miles from Macon on the Camp Wheeler road, already are owned by the state, but have never been used, Benning M. Grice, Bibb legislator, said. Proposal for the school will be presented to Lamar Murdaugh, state director of public welfare, Mr. Grice explained.

Jug' McSpaden Leads

JIMMY THOMSON IN SECOND SPOT 4 STRIKES BACK

Leader Has 135; Snead Back in Running With Great 67.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 16.—(P)—Harold "Jug" McSpaden, of Winchester, Mass., pulled away from the pack in the $10,000 Miami open today, puffing serenely on a pipe as he hammered out his second sub-par score, a 69, for a 36-hole 135.

As untruffed as he was yesterday in tacking up a four-under-par 66, McSpaden took a four-stroke lead over Jimmy Thomson, of Shawnee, Pa., while John Geertsen, of Salt Lake City, an early pace-setter, dropped seven shots back. Geertsen blew himself to a 76, 10 strokes over his opening round, for a 142.

Thomson, who had a first-round 66, added a 71 for his 137. Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., faltered slightly with a 72 after an opening 68 and shared the 140 bracket with Mike Turnesa, of New York, who put together a pair of pars.

Johnny Revolta, of Chicago, played within striking distance of the leaders with a 71 for a 141 total, where he was even with Jimmy Hines, of New York; Craig Wood, of New York, and Johnny Bulla, of Chicago. Hines and Bulla cracked out 69's today and Wood a 70.

Ralph Guldahl, National Open champion, Claude Harmon of Chicago, Jack Patroni of Shawnee, Pa., and Maurice O'Connor of Belleville, N. J., overtook Geertsen at 142.

Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pre-tournament favorite who scored a disappointing 76 yesterday, bombarded his way into the running with a 67, the day's lowest score. Snead had 143 with E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Chicago, Bobby Cruickshank of Delray Beach, Fla., and Frank Kringle of Linden, N. J.

McSpaden ripped off a two-under-par 33 on the front nine, but several putts rimmed the cup on the way back and he slipped to 34.

Snead also went out in 33, came home in 34 and would have had an even lower score except for several putts which missed by inches. He chipped into the cup from 30 feet for a birdie deuce on the eighth, where he took a five yesterday.

Geertsen, playing in a high wind that died down later, lost six strokes to par on three holes. He said he was hitting the ball just as well as yesterday but the wind kept him in constant trouble.

U. S. HORSE LIKED IN EPSOM EVENT

By SCOTTY RESTON.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(P)—William Woodward, New York banker and sportsman, finally came up with a favorite for the Derby. It is Foxborough 2nd, champion two-year-old of the year on the English turf, full brother to Woodward's famous Gallant Fox, and now winter bookie odds of 6 to 1 to win the three-year-old classic at Epsom next June.

Since Gallant Fox in 1930 won the Kentucky Derby, Pimlico's Preakness, the Belmont stakes and almost everything else on the American tracks, Woodward's ambition has been to win the Epsom Derby and then the Ascot Gold Cup.

In 1938 the great-hearted Omaha came within a head of winning the Gold Cup, and when he was beaten by Quashed, Woodward all but put away his hopes. But last spring the New Yorker's Flares scored one of the great upsets of the season to give Woodward his first triumph in the Gold Cup. Now he has only the Derby to win to be satisfied.

Foxborough, by Sir Galahad 12, out of Marguerite, did not appear on a racecourse until the end of September. Then he won the Hopful stakes at Newmarket. In his only other race against the best of his age he won the Middle Park stakes, also at Newmarket.

The critics over the Derby show as much promise as any two-year-old in years. He has a fine front and the best of legs and no one yet has doubted his ability to do the Derby distance of a mile and a half.

WARREN BEATEN BY NEHL, 52-43

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 16.—(P)

The Nehl Reds made it two in a row by defeating the Warren Company team of Atlanta by a score of 52 to 43 here tonight.

The visitors scored the first goal, after which the Reds took the lead and played well all the way. Nehl was on the long end of a 28-19 score at the half.

Jones paced the winners with 18 points and Hubbard was next with 16 markers. Copeland looked best for the visitors, leading his team with 12 points and playing an outstanding defensive game. Nehl defeated Warren Company in Atlanta last week, 43-29.

MERGER DEBATED.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 16.—(P)

Representatives of the United and National Trotting Associations, and the American Trotting Register Association, debated behind closed doors for the second day today details of plans which they hope will lead to a merger of the three harness horse racing parent bodies.

McKechnie Won't Pick His Reds for Pennant

Bill Says Much Depends on Youngsters; Counts on Grissom, Vander Meer, Derringer.

By WHITNEY MARTIN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—He's in the position of a father who isn't quite sure whether his adolescent son will become a man to be taken as a fine example or just a man to be taken, so Mr. William Lloyd McKechnie has some excuse for refusing to predict whether his youthful Cincinnati Reds will finish on top of the National League or the National league will finish on top of the Cincinnati Reds.

Many experts are seeing red these days, picking the Cincinnati club to finish first, but McKechnie will go only part way with them. He is picking them to finish.

"Ask me next August," he replies. "Some of the new boys were all right in the minors, but that isn't in the majors."

The medium-sized, bespectacled Red pilot, who might be taken for a professor were it not for a skin a little on the leather side from backstopping for the sun in blistering July doubleheaders, is a great family man. He measures his words carefully. In fact, they came out by the inch when he discussed his club, which he says when he was discussing a beautiful tablecloth he had seen.

"Yes, we don't know just what to expect from the youngsters," he repeated. "We have a couple of Syracuse boys coming up, and a couple of who played with Kansas City. The imported, hand-painted tablecloth."

It took some time to steer him back to baseball, but he finally admitted the outfield looked pretty good, that Ernie Lombardi will do as catcher, which is something like saying a chair will do to sit on, and that the hurling staff doesn't look so bad.

"Lee Grissom can't help but be better," he pointed out, "and that imported hand-painted table cloth has a hunting scene on it. Again he was off on a tangent, and before he came back it was recalled that Grissom was out with injuries most of last year, and that Paul Derringer and Johnny Vander Meer are the only fair country hurlers. He has Syracuse lad named Earl Cook coming up who may or may not deliver."

LITTLE WORRIED. Although he did not say so, the roster of newcomers indicates he might be a little worried over second base and third base. Ed Jost, from Kansas City, and Charley English, who batted in 140 runs on the coast last season and who incidentally played for Kansas City in 1937, are on the list. Second baseman, and Einar Sorenson, who hit .326 with Waterloo, Iowa, last summer, is another keystone sacker who will be given a chance.

"And do they like night baseball in Cincinnati?" he exclaimed. "Come over some night and try to get in. And that beautiful, imported, hand-painted table cloth with a hunting scene on it. There was no—"

After several hours Mr. McKechnie got around to agreeing that Wally Berger, Ival Goodman and Harry Craft were not so bad as outfielders and that Frank McCormick was good at first base and better at the plate.

"And that beautiful, imported, hand-painted table cloth with a hunting scene on it. There was no price on it, as the mill where it was made in Czechoslovakia had shut down."

That's what we wanted to know, anyway. Where that table cloth came from.

Turkey Shoot Set At Lindale Sunday

LINDALE, Ga., Dec. 16.—(P)

The Floyd County Game Association announced today that the turkey shoot to be held Sunday on the local skeet grounds.

Shooting will start promptly at 12 o'clock and will continue until 12 o'clock. The winner has the right to choose between a turkey or ham.

Proceeds from the shoot will go to the support of the Floyd County quail farm.

Twenty-one bowlers are signed for the high single game in the American Mutual Insurance league.

John E. Hartken was the pacemaker for Friday's bowling in league competition, with a fine series of 271 that included a high single game of 139 as his National league team won three games from Atlanta Clear Company, in the Merchants league, relegating the Reds to second place. The team of Lyle and Gaston went into a tie for the lead, winning one game from their opponents.

Charny Rolleston paved the way to a three-way brookhaven from the third round to the final round, turning in the top three games of 121, 119 and 112 for a big total of 352. The team of Lyle and Gaston, had the high single game of 128.

Rabridge's 337 series and Wages' game of 141 were the best of the day. As Truett Laboratories retained their title in the Trust Company of Georgia league, Dunn rolled a big count of 333 for three games while McGinnis, the top average man of the league, had 140 for three games.

All Wehling continued to boost his average in the Fisher Bodies tennis league. Five games were offered in the high single game of 185 and high three games of 521 as the team won three games from Pontiacs.

Al Haves' 200 and J. Steadham's 115 for high single game in the American Mutual Insurance league.

CUB FLAG DRIVE, TARTAN VICTORY BIGGEST UPSETS

Louis' One-Round Kayo Over Schmeling Another Great Surprise.

By WHITNEY MARTIN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—Carnegie Tech's 20-10 walloping of Pittsburgh in football and the combination of circumstances that led to the Chicago Cubs' National league pennant victory shared first place among 1938 sports upsets in the opinion of the nation's sports scribes who contributed to the eighth annual Associated Press poll.

By awarding points on a 3-2-1 basis for the three nominations submitted by each expert, Carnegie Tech's tripping the Panthers gained 53 1-2 points, the highest single total. But with 30 points polled for the Cubs' pennant victory, and another 26 for the collapse of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the outcome of the National league race actually gained 56 points, one-half more than the Carnegie triumph.

Second to the Tartans' feat in the individual tabulation of surprise came Joe Louis' one-round knockout of Max Schmeling, which set a speed record for heavyweight championship bout. The Cubs' pennant winning game third, followed by Seabiscuit's thumping defeat of War Admiral in their long-awaited match.

Fifth place went to the Cincinnati Reds' showing in the National league.

Football figured most heavily in the balloting, with 19 nominations, 12 of them the results of specific games, to the list of 54 upsets. There were 12 baseball surprises, and six each in golf and boxing.

Charles S. Reid, newly-appointed chief justice of the state supreme court, will take his oath of office at 10 o'clock this morning. Governor Rivers, the new jurist's old friend who appointed him to the post, will administer the oath. The ceremony will be at the capitol.

The Governor announced yesterday that all friends of Mr. Reid have been invited to the ceremony. "Important Day."

"I believe it will be an important day in Georgia's history when Mr. Reid becomes its chief justice," the Governor said. "Both Mr. Reid and I will be happy to welcome all who care to attend."

Associates justices of the court and the judges of the court of appeals are expected to be present. Chief Justice Reid's mother, Mrs. N. Y. Reid, of Blairsville, will be here for the ceremony. She is bringing the Reid family Bible to be used in the ceremony.

Young Harris College which gave both Governor Rivers and Chief Justice Reid to the state, will head a large delegation expected from Young Harris.

Meanwhile, Mr. Reid severed his connection with the law firm of Little, Powell, Reid and Goldstein yesterday. Judge Arthur G. Powell, head of the firm, announced its reorganization under the name of Powell, Goldstein, Frazer and Murphy. The partners are Judge Powell, Max F. Goldstein, James N. Frazer, B. D. Murphy and James K. Rankin.

ARMY DROPS NAME OF BENNING SLAYER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)

A War Department order disclosed today Major John Rutter Brooke Jr., who was convicted of slaying his wife at Fort Benning, Ga., had been dropped from the army rolls.

The order was effective yesterday.

Crosby Entry Liked In Frisco Handicap

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—(P)

Lugarito, Argentine bred thoroughbred, will pack top weight and probably the public's backing tomorrow in the $10,000-added San Francisco handicap. The big race, over a mile and a sixteenth, will ring down the curtain on the fall season at Tanforan track.

Lugarito lost by a nose to Seabiscuit in a match race last summer. Noel Richardson will be in the saddle, at 128 pounds.

The Binglin stable, owned by Bing Crosby, of Hollywood, and Lin Howard, of San Francisco, will have Lugarito, Comet II, and Olimpo running as an entry.

New Baseball Loop Is Formed in West

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 16.—(UP)

First new baseball circuit to be organized for the 1939 season is the Pioneer league which qualified today for membership in the National Association of Professional (minor) Baseball Leagues, the association announced tonight.

Members of the Class C league are Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, and Focattello, Twin Falls, Boise and Lewiston, Idaho.

TARIFF BARRIERS REDUCTION PACT APPROVED AT LIMA

United States Resolution Unanimously Passed Pledges Nations to Lower Duties on Imports.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 16.—(P)—The Pan-American Conference took its first concrete action tonight, unanimously approving a United States resolution for reduction of international trade barriers.

Two deep-rooted Latin American controversies, however, came to the fore.

Eduardo Diez de Medina, Bolivian foreign minister, demanded outlets for which his land-locked country fought unsuccessfully in the Gran Chaco war with Paraguay. Ecuador, desiring to settle her border controversy with Peru, filed a resolution to set up two permanent commissions of investigation and conciliation.

Seven Reservations.

The United States economic resolution was presented to the full session of the conference with signatures of all Pan-American states attached, but several countries filed reservations on points which the conference held did not impair the resolution. United States delegates circulated among other delegates tonight the final draft of a continental solidarity and defense plan preparatory to presentation before the deadline tomorrow night. Adoption of a declaration for the solidarity of the Americas against any foreign threat appeared assured.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull was said to be convinced that all could agree on a "dynamic draft of a declaration."

Excerpts From Speeches.

Such a declaration, Hull was said to believe, could be framed and adopted—merely by linking together sentences out of anti-aggression speeches by himself and other delegates.

This evening all delegates gathered to hear Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican ambassador to the United States and chairman of the Mexican delegation, declare that all American nations must follow the way of democracy.

The delegates—some of whom have been avoiding the subject—listened in silence or applauded as Najera declared:

"Democracy in substance and spirit is the very being of America. . . . In the popular conscience of all our peoples democratic aspirations are deeply imbedded and nothing and nobody will succeed in preventing them from developing. . . ."

As for a mutual defense measure, Hull has definitely ruled out the possibility of anything in the nature of a Pan-American League of Nations or a military pact.

Despite informal objections by some delegates to some of the ideas brought to Lima by Hull, such as a pact for continental de-

'Office Wife' Tells Jury That 'I Can't Remember' Details in Shooting of Her Employer and Sweetheart

Says He Told Her He Was Divorced; 'Forgets Statement.'

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Dec. 16.—(P)—Blonde Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull insisted today that she remembered nothing of the fatal shooting of William Holbrook, her employer and sweetheart, under vigorous cross-examination by the prosecution at her murder trial.

Edward A. Westin, Berrien county prosecutor, rapidly fired questions at Mrs. Dull but she answered each one coolly and deliberately, usually asserting "I can't remember."

"When did you start forgetting?" Westin shouted. "Did you forget before or after you retained a lawyer?"

The question was withdrawn when defense counsel objected.

Mrs. Dull contended she could remember "practically nothing" until she was at the county jail many hours after the shooting on October 17. Westin read a lengthy question and answer statement he said Mrs. Dull made to Sheriff Charles L. Miller but the admitted "office wife" of the slain attorney said she could not remember giving any of the answers.

"I loved him—I worshiped him," she said of Holbrook when asked by Westin why she did not leave after repeated beatings.

Mrs. Dull testified under cross-examination that "even now" she did not know that Holbrook was married and had four children.

She said that all she knew of his past was "what William told me—that he was divorced."

M'KESSON COMMON IS QUOTED AT .75

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—Securities of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., plummeted to new lows in "water the counter" markets today.

The common stock was quoted at 75 cents a share bid, $1 asked, compared with the final sale at $7.50 on the New York Stock Exchange before dealings were suspended December 7 last.

McKesson & Robbins $3 preferred stock was quoted today "over the counter" at $25.25 a share bid, $26 asked, compared with the last sale of $1,037.50 per $1,000 bond on the stock exchange.

The convertible 5-1/2 percent debentures, $1,000 face value each, were quoted "over the counter" at $530 bid, $540 asked, compared with the last sale of $1,037.50 per $1,000 bond on the stock exchange.

fense, the secretary of state still believes all nations represented are disposed to work together against a military or any other kind of threat.

He has reminded delegates that their nations agreed in 1936 at the Buenos Aires inter-American conference that any force or threat of force would be a matter of concern to all and that they should confer immediately in such an eventuality.

BIRTH OF COSTER RECORDED IN 1935

Site of Nativity Given as Present Location of Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—Three birth certificates located in District of Columbia health department files added another bizarre feature today to the amazing McKesson & Robbins case.

The records disclosed that on August 7, 1935, birth certificates were filed simultaneously for F. Donald Coster, recently identified as Philip Musica, and two of his brothers.

Coster's certificate gave his full name as Frank Donald Coster and said he was born May 12, 1884, at 125 A street, N. E., in this city. This is the present site of the supreme court building.

Separated only by two pages in the ledger from Coster's certificate was another for George Edmund Dietrich, assistant vice president of the drug company Coster headed. A third certificate was found recording the birth of Robert Joseph Dietrich.

All three were clocked in at the department at exactly the same time and were signed the day before by the same midwife, Adele Vinard. Her address was given as 1840 Grand Concourse, New York city.

Meanwhile, postal inspectors began an investigation to learn whether the McKesson & Robbins concern had used the mails to defraud.

HITLER OUTWITS CHINESE.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—(P)—Chancellor Hitler received Chen Chien, new Chinese ambassador to Germany, today after the envoy delivered from his formal speech a reference to the Chinese-Japanese conflict that was said to have delayed his presentation of credentials. The ambassador arrived in Berlin nearly three months ago but Hitler had been unable to receive him.

Coster's Suicide Recalls Kreuger's Stavisky Deaths

By The Associated Press.

The suicide of Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Coster, recalls Ivar Kreuger and Serge Stavisky—men who like Coster, reared huge financial enterprises, saw them collapse and killed themselves.

Kreuger made millions in matches. Born in Sweden in 1880, he came to the United States. He had small jobs in Chicago, Canada, London and New York before starting in Stockholm in 1908 to build Kreuger & Toll, a holding and finance company which had world-wide match monopolies and business, and reached so great a financial position that he could lend France $75,000,000 and Germany $125,000,000.

He killed himself in his Paris home March 12, 1935, when the financial structure he reared was crumbling due to disclosure of a deal in forged Italian bonds.

Stavisky—nicknamed "Handsome Alex"—Russian-born, a naturalized French citizen, friend of cabinet ministers, and suspected swindler—founded the Credit Municipal de Bayonne, France, a pawnshop whose collapse in December, 1933, revealed frauds amounting to $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 and played a part in the downfall on January 27, 1934, of Premier Camille Chautemps' government.

Heart diseases are the leading cause of death in the United States, but not for Indians—tuberculosis is their most deadly disease.

parent $18,000,000 overstatement of McKesson & Robbins assets. These developments included disclosures that Coster—who was involved 25 years ago in the million-dollar collapse of the United States Hair Company—was suspected of shipping arms to belligerents abroad in cases labeled "milk of magnesia."

Behind Cantabrica? It turned out, too, that he might have been the hidden backer for the Spanish government ship Cantabrica which was sunk about a year ago with a cargo of munitions which the United States government had vainly tried to keep in this country.

It developed, too, that Coster at one time in his life had even a third identity—that during the World War he was an investigator in the attorney general's office, engaged principally on crimes of

FATE TOOK A HAND IN CRUSHING COSTER

Directors Wanted To Know Why 'Warehouse' Was Not Insured.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—Philip Musica, the self-destructed schemer who as F. Donald Coster became head of McKesson & Robbins drug firm, was planning to break up the $87,000,000 corporation to cover its "milking" at the time his activities were discovered.

The New York Sun said today that "investigators, puzzled to know how Coster had expected to extricate himself from his difficulties, were informed it had been his plan to dissolve the big organization and to use his common stock to buy its crude drug department."

Investigators for the Securities and Exchange Commission said Coster and his accomplices might have found themselves not only safe, but wealthy and respected as well, if directors of the firm had not become suspicious over so small a thing as lack of insurance on one of the non-existent warehouses of the crude drug department which Coster controlled.

The probe of SEC investigators, it was learned, failed to show, after ten days, a nickel's worth of assets in the raw drug department beyond a few small bank accounts.

The corporation's $9,500,000 inventory of drugs which were supposed to have been in Canadian warehouses did not exist, they said, and the $8,400,000 in accounts receivable were reported never to have had any substance except on paper.

The raw drugs department was completely separated from the honestly conducted departments.

Falsification of the books to show these fictitious assets, not only boosted the supposed earnings of the company to a point where there was a market for its bonds, but also gave the firm of W. H. Smith & Company, purchasing agents, $168,000 a year as commissions for the buying and selling of crude drugs, which were neither bought nor sold.

COMMUNISTS ARRESTED.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 16.—(P) Athens police announced today what they termed a decisive blow at the remaining communist element in Greece with the arrest of 46 persons and seizure of documents, leaflets and a printing machine.

espionage under the name of "William Johnson."

From the description of Assistant United States Attorney Gorman of the visit of the federal man to Coster's home, it appeared the elderly promoter had made his last decision just before their arrival.

"I arrived about noon in company with about 10 other men connected with the United States marshal's office in New Haven," said Gorman.

"We had come to take Coster into custody for the purpose of raising his bond before the (U. S.) commissioner in New Haven."

"As we stood at the door we heard a shot from upstairs. The household was in a turmoil. I have seldom seen such hysteria or heard such weeping as was set up immediately."

Ran to Bathroom. "U. S. Marshal Bernard Fitch ran upstairs and found the body of Coster in the bathroom, a bullet through his head. He was dead and thoroughly dead when Fitch found him."

"Mrs. Coster was panic-stricken and hysterical almost beyond control. "With us was Dietrich. When he heard the shot he suddenly became a broken man. He wept pitifully and carried on when he had learned what he had suspected."

"Mrs. Coster kept repeating: 'He told me he wouldn't do this. He swore he wouldn't.'"

It developed that Coster had threatened suicide three weeks ago and that three of his pistols had been hidden in the estate's garage by a chauffeur.

Just before the arrival of the officers, Coster had sent a servant for a highball which he drank. He pulled the trigger as the servant left his presence.

Mrs. Coster collapsed.

Ended Two Lives. The financier had ended not one life but two—that of Coster and the old life of Philip Musica which he had successfully put out of the memory of men for two decades, but which was brought back into the open at the time of his first arrest some days ago.

As the scene of last week took fingerprints which he must have known would bring Musica back, he made but one comment: "This is tasty," he said.

The troubles he could not endure started on December 6 when an application for reorganization of McKesson & Robbins—which he had helped build from its beginnings as a little hair tonic company—was filed in Hartford, Connecticut.

Things moved rapidly after that, in a pattern of disaster piled upon disaster for Musica-Coster.

Securities and Exchange Commission men got busy and the state supreme court tied up $100,000 of his wife's money; his directors called upon him to resign, and the SEC made one new astonishing disclosure after another.

Coster and his accused codefendants, the commission said, had talked of warehouses and co-operating companies, but the state supreme court tied up $100,000 of his wife's money; his directors called upon him to resign, and the SEC made one new astonishing disclosure after another.

'F. Donald Coster' and Two of Brothers

F. Donald Coster was Philip Musica when he was pictured upon his arrest in 1933. He is hardly recognizable as the same man in the picture made on his arrest in 1938, at right.

Here is the luxurious Fairfield, Conn., home of Coster, where he committed suicide yesterday as federal authorities knocked at the ornate door.

ammunition which may involve living persons."

He did not amplify his statement.

Born in Naples. Philip Musica actually began life in Naples, Italy, although his official biography—a document picturing him as a doctor of medicine and philosophy from Heidelberg University—gave his birthplace as Washington, D. C.

His father was Antonio Musica, a barber, and when Philip was six, the Musicas came by steamer, to this country.

Philip was a gay Broadway figure back in the gaslight era and about 1909 had become the chief power in an importing firm that was doing a half-million-dollar business annually until investigators charged that the Musicas were evading duty by bribing weighers to mark down the weight of imported cheese. Philip was sentenced to a year's imprisonment and fined $5,000. This conviction was wiped out by a pardon by President Taft.

He came directly back to New York—the scene of all his operations—and went into the human hair business. The United States Hair Company was formed, and Philip and the other Musicas, including the father, Antonio, prospered again.

Wasn't Satisfied. But again Philip Musica, not satisfied with fine living and fine prospects, reached out for forbidden profits. He wanted $370,000 and offered 216 cases of human hair, theoretically worth that amount, to cover the loan.

It developed that the cases held no more than $250 worth of hair. These and other disclosures brought Philip a conviction for grand larceny, but his sentence was suspended in 1916.

Old Antonio, the father, was heartbroken, and tried to kill himself.

After 1920, Philip Musica was no more and in 1922 "F. Donald Coster" turned up as head of Girard & Company, manufacturers of hair tonics, in nearby Westchester county.

Coster obtained bank credit without difficulty as he needed it, if ever, appeared at company board meetings, and refused flatly to be photographed.

Coster's Motto. A wall motto, from the writing of Harriet Beecher Stowe, found today in a sitting room near his bedroom, struck the right note for every part of his life except the way he ended it:

"When you get into a tight place and everything goes against you till it seems as if you couldn't hold on a minute longer, never give up then, for that is just the place and time the tide will turn."

Sponsor for Black and White Ball

MISS JANE COTHRAN SMITH.

Miss Jane Cothran Smith, daughter of Mrs. Belle M. Smith, of this city, has been selected as one of a trio of sponsors for the Black-and-White ball, which will be a brilliant event of December 26 at the DeSoto hotel in Savannah.

Other sponsors selected for the ball are Miss Betty Urquhart, of Greensboro, N. C., and Miss Peggy McIsaac, of Uniontown, Alabama.

The ball, which is sponsored by Savannah's Penguin Council, will assemble several hundred members of the college set, including a number of visiting belles and beaux.

The sponsors will wear stunning black evening dresses with shoulder clusters of white orchids. Other feminine guests are requested to wear white evening gowns to harmonize with the provincial black-and-white evening attire of their escorts.

Miss Smith, who arrives today from Duke University, where she is a member of the freshman class, leaves with her mother on Tuesday for Savannah to spend the holidays with the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith.

After resuming her studies at Duke in the early new year, Miss Smith will visit her classmate, Miss Patsy Reed, of Miami, Florida.

Miss Smith is counted among the most popular co-eds at Duke University, where she is pledged to the Kappa Gamma Gamma sorority. In a recent contest held at Duke, the Atlanta belle was voted beauty queen of the year.

Another honor conferred upon Miss Smith was her selection as sponsor for the recent Duke-Pittsburgh football game in Raleigh.

PRE-CHRISTMAS SERVICES PLANNED

Sacred Music, Cantatas, Pageants To Be Offered by Atlanta Churches

Visiting Ministers Will Occupy Pulpits at Morning and Night Services at Several Churches; Trinity Will Hold Regular Devotionals.

Atlanta will usher in the religious phase of the observance of Christmas with special programs of sacred music, cantatas and pageants in several churches tomorrow afternoon and night, anticipating by one week the general observance of the Nativity.

Visiting ministers will occupy pulpits at morning and night services in some churches, while at the Jefferson Park Church of Christ an ordination service will be held at 7:30 o'clock when William E. Best, who has been ministering to the congregation for the past year, will be ordained.

The Salvation Army will present a special N. Y. P. S. service at the First Church of the Nazarene at 6:30 o'clock, the program being in charge of Major Fitten and the Training School male cadets. Seven deacons will be ordained at Capitol Avenue Baptist church, the sermon to be preached by Dr. B. D. Gray, secretary emeritus of the Baptist Home Mission Board.

Members of the Civitan Club will attend in a body services at the Cathedral of St. Philip at 11 o'clock as a special token of esteem for Dean Raimundo de Oviés, rector, who is chaplain of the club.

While repairs are still under way at Trinity Methodist church, damaged by fire last week, services will be held there as usual.

St. Luke's Episcopal church will hold its annual Christmas celebration for the pupils of the Sunday school with a special pageant at 3:30 o'clock in the nave of the church, when 23 episodes dealing with the Nativity will be presented.

The musical background will be rendered by the church under the direction of Hugh Hodgson. The usual morning session of the Sunday school will be omitted.

A Christmas cantata, "The Prince of Peace," will be presented by the young people's choir of Gordon Street Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. Harold Shields, will preach at the morning service, his topic being "In Fulfillment of Time." The service marks the fourteenth anniversary of his pastorate at the church.

Covenant Presbyterian church will present a special program of choral music at 7:30 o'clock, the program to be featured by a chorus composed of Mrs. W. A. Whitman, Mrs. R. B. Sanford, Mrs. W. P. Briggs, Mrs. J. C. McClellan, Mrs. Guy Rodgers, Miss Evelyn Suderth, Mrs. P. T. McWaters, Mrs. L. J. Dennison, Mrs. Karl Icenogle, Mrs. C. W. Harris, Miss Jane Baker, P. J. Eisenhart, William Crump and L. J. Dennison.

Mrs. W. A. DeLamar, organist, will be assisted by Mrs. W. A. Whitman, Mrs. R. B. Sanford, Mrs. W. P. Briggs, Mrs. J. C. McClellan, Mrs. Guy Rodgers, Miss Evelyn Suderth, Mrs. P. T. McWaters, Mrs. L. J. Dennison, Mrs. Karl Icenogle, Mrs. C. W. Harris, Miss Jane Baker, P. J. Eisenhart, William Crump and L. J. Dennison.

Special programs will be presented at both morning and evening services at Rock Spring Presbyterian church, the night program to be featured by Christmas cantata, "The Prince of Peace," which will be sung by two choirs. A special offering will be taken for aged ministers of the Presbyterian church.

"Miriam's Visions," colorful sacred pageant, will be presented by the church school and choir of Grace Methodist church at a "white gift" service in the church at 7:30 o'clock.

Stewart Avenue Methodist church will present a pageant, "Christmas Eve in the Home," in choral music at 7:30 o'clock, while the chorus choir of Wesley Memorial church will render a program of sacred music in the church auditorium at the same hour.

The Druid Hills High School choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. B. McNelly, will present a carol service in the theology chapel of Glenn Memorial Methodist church, Emory University, at 7 o'clock, while at the morning service, the pastor, Rev. Nat. C. Long, will speak on "The Tragedy of Fooling Yourself."

Schnecker's cantata, "The Hope of the World," will be presented by the choir of Decatur First Methodist at 7:30 o'clock. This program will be preceded by a special service by the Sunday school and young people's choir of the church.

Children of the Methodist Children's Home will be guests.

Haygood Memorial M. E. church will present a Christmas pageant, "Joy to the World," at 5:30 o'clock, while a special candle-light and carol service will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

The Virginia Avenue Baptist church will present the pageant, "The Adoration," at 7 o'clock, the Madonna being portrayed by Mrs. G. L. Mayo, while the reader will be Mrs. Thomas Amoson.

Carol services will be held at 7:30 o'clock by First Baptist church, with a choir of 35 voices participating, while Merritts Avenue Baptist church will present a program of sacred music at 7 o'clock.

Special motion pictures of scenes in the Holy Land will be shown at the Baptist Tabernacle at the Baptist Training Union assembly hall, at 6 o'clock. These pictures were made last summer by the Rev. James M. Baggett, pastor of First Baptist church, College Park, and the Rev. J. F. Mitchell, pastor of North Atlanta Baptist church. A feature of the program will be a solo by J. Elmer Slider, "The Holy City."

College Park Baptist church will present a special program of Christmas music in the church at 4:30 o'clock, the program to feature the choruses of the College Park Women's Club. The cantata, "The Infant King," will be presented by the choir of Confederate Avenue Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock.

First Presbyterian church will have a special Christmas praise service at 7:30 o'clock when a special program of song and sacred music will be presented, while the Druid Hills Presbyterian church will present a Christmas pageant at 7:30 o'clock.

The Bible School of the Messiah Lutheran church will hold its annual Christmas exercises at 7:30 o'clock, when a missionary message of the nativity, "Christmas Eve in the Home," will be presented by the children.

The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will present the colorful Christmas pageant, "The Road to Bethlehem," between 7 o'clock and 8 o'clock, the program being given by the church and Bible School choirs. The pilgrimage will be conducted about every half hour.

A "White Gift" service will be held at First Christian church at 7:30 o'clock, to be featured by a Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang," presented by the young people of the church under the direction of Miss Martha Quick and Miss Dorothy Tourney.

The Happiness Boy

MOON ON THE WATER

There Is a Scene, in Which Dulcie Accuses Jane of Being Jealous of Her

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Jane Brooks' mother died soon after her godmother bequeathed her 3,000 pounds sterling to be held in trust five years until she is 21. Pamela, a year older, takes her mother's place in the household. Dulcie, the eldest, is the blond beauty of the family. Just as Jane goes her legacy Gavin Montford returns to England from Canada to visit his uncle, Dr. Bingham, the Brooks' neighbor. He meets Jane when the old Brooks car stops suddenly and he discovers the only trouble is the gas tank is empty. Going with her to get gasoline, he learns she loves poetry and is superstitious about seeing the new moon through glass or reflected in water. The next day he takes her to lunch and tells her that when his parents died while he was in school he went to Canada and tried several things but with little success. Almost abruptly he asks her to marry him. She insists he use her money to start in business so they can marry soon. Dulcie returns from London, saying Josh Hallard, a wealthy man of 30, wants to marry her. She makes opportunities to be alone with Gavin. Jane is jealous and Pamela wants to watch her sister. Josh comes to see Dulcie and Jane likes him. There is delay in Gavin's going. Partnership papers, he looks worried and when Jane questions him he asks if she repents giving him her money. She assures him she doesn't regret it. He says he is going to see if she still loves him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

"It seems to be all arranged," Jane said, and Pamela answered, "Well, you have made your plans, so I thought it was time I thought of my own future." Jane did not reply, and the elder girl went on, "Of course, you'll be married now Gavin's partnership is settled. There won't be anything to wait for. We might even have a double wedding if it can be arranged; it will save expense." "And—Dulcie?" Jane hazarded. Pamela shrugged her shoulders. "Dulcie has never considered us, so there is no need for us to consider her. I expect she'll marry her old gentleman."

"He's not so old," Jane said indignantly, and then she laughed in faint embarrassment. "At least, he didn't seem old to me." "He has evidently got the right side of you," Pamela remarked, and then she asked pertinently where Jane had thought of living after she was married. "We've never thought about it," Jane was forced to admit. "Pamela said, 'But you told me you had arranged to get married as soon as Gavin had his partnership.'"

"Oh—did I?" Jane flushed. "I'd forgotten; but anyway, we haven't decided anything—there's no hurry." A little flash of pity crossed Pamela's face, but she did not pursue the subject, though Jane had the dreadful feeling that her sister knew something—or could see that she was not happy.

"What can I do? What can I do?" she asked herself in despair, and it seemed impossible that so short a time ago she had been confidently sure of managing her love affair successfully.

She had made up her mind to the fact that Gavin was not in love with her, and she had believed that friendship would be a sound enough basis for lasting happiness, but she no longer believed it. It was not enough; she had made the discovery that at heart she longed for love, just as any other girl longed for it, and that marriage with Gavin in the present circumstances was an impossibility, even supposing he was willing to go through with it.

And there was nobody to whom she could talk, nobody whose advice she could ask; her natural independence had failed her and left her with the feeling that she was just drifting about like a rudderless boat.

"Perhaps it will all come right at last," she thought.

AUNT HET

By ROBERT GUILLIN.

She took off her hat and coat and pushed back her unruly hair. "It must be tea time," she said vaguely, and she wondered why she felt as if she ought to call out in order to let Gavin and Dulcie know of her arrival before she opened the drawing room door. Dulcie was sitting on a low stool by the fire while Gavin lounged opposite in an armchair, and there was such an air of comfortable intimacy about the little scene that Jane felt as if she ought to say, "I'm sorry. I hope I'm not disturbing you."

Gavin rose to his feet. "Where have you been?" he asked. "Only for a walk—it was such a lovely afternoon."

"I've done my best to entertain him," Dulcie said, but she showed no signs of taking her departure. "Any hope of tea?" she asked.

"I think it's just coming," Jane told her.

and some day I shall find myself, safely in port," she thought without much hope. "But it seems far more likely that I shall land on the rocks."

And Pamela, covertly watching her, was thinking: "Well, she happens; she's so happy-go-lucky—she'll just laugh if it turns out badly, and make the best of it."

Pamela did not like Gavin Montford very much. She held the conventional idea that if a man accepted financial help from a woman—even from the woman he was to marry—there must be something wrong.

Dulcie did not come home until the small hours of the morning, and she spent the best part of the following day in bed.

When Jane went to inquire if she would mind anything, she merely shut her eyes and asked to be left alone.

"You're not ill, are you?" Jane asked. "Ill?" Dulcie sat up then, looking the picture of health and beauty. "Ill? I was never better in my life. We had a marvelous evening, but as I don't want to look an old hag before I'm 30, I believe in taking a good rest. By the way," she added as Jane turned to go, "Josh says he would like to take you to lunch and a theater some day—with me, of course, she was quick to add. 'I suppose he thinks he must be polite to the family.'"

"There is no need for him to be polite to me," Jane said. "But I should love to go to a theater—if you don't mind anything, I'd like him to ask me."

"Why should I mind?" Dulcie demanded. "I'm sure enough of him not to be jealous."

Jane could believe that, and she felt ashamed of her own wretchedness two nights ago when Dulcie and Gavin had dined at the George. And yet—wasn't that different? And hadn't Dulcie wished to be alone with him?

It was nearly lunch time, and so far there had been no word from Gavin, although he had promised to come during the morning.

Jane felt restless and unable to settle to anything, and more than once crossed the hall to the telephone, meaning to ring Gavin, but each time she turned away.

If he did not wish to come, she would not ask him, and that seemed all right. But surely if they cared for each other and understood each other, there could be no question of pride, or feeling of hesitation over such a little matter.

When lunch was over she went out for a walk. Her spirits rose, and she deliberately chose to walk along by the stream, the way she had first walked with Gavin through the quiet darkness. "He liked me the way I was," she thought, and was sure of it.

No moon this afternoon! Just the shimmering sunlight on the surface of the water. It was impossible to feel sad on such an afternoon.

"It will come all right," she told herself firmly, as she turned to retrace her steps.

The first thing she saw in the hall was Gavin's hat thrown down on a chair, and Pamela, coming down the stairs, said in an undertone, "He came almost as soon as you'd gone out. Dulcie has been entertaining him."

"Oh," Jane said. She took off her hat and coat and pushed back her unruly hair. "It must be tea time," she said vaguely, and she wondered why she felt as if she ought to call out in order to let Gavin and Dulcie know of her arrival before she opened the drawing room door.

Dulcie was sitting on a low stool by the fire while Gavin lounged opposite in an armchair, and there was such an air of comfortable intimacy about the little scene that Jane felt as if she ought to say, "I'm sorry. I hope I'm not disturbing you."

Gavin rose to his feet. "Where have you been?" he asked. "Only for a walk—it was such a lovely afternoon."

"I've done my best to entertain him," Dulcie said, but she showed no signs of taking her departure. "Any hope of tea?" she asked.

"I think it's just coming," Jane told her.

Dulcie gave a little scream. "Look at your muddy shoes!" Jane glanced downwards. "Yes, I came through the fields by the stream," she said, and wondered whether Gavin would remember that walk or whether to him it had not been worth remembering.

"I've been telling Gavin that Josh wants to take you to a show," Dulcie said.

She looked across at Gavin with a mischievous smile. "He hasn't shown any signs of raving jealousy—but he's probably keeping it all in reserve for you."

"Why should I show signs of raving jealousy?" Gavin asked a little irritably.

Dulcie shrugged her shoulders. "Aren't people jealous—when they're in love?"

He did not answer, but in her heart Jane answered for him: "I'm not in love."

For she knew that was the truth; she knew that he was probably far happier talking nonsense to Dulcie than he was when he was with her.

Tea came and Jane poured out. "You've spilt the milk," Dulcie said. "Jane always spills things," she told Gavin. "Years ago, if anything got broken in the house, mother used to say, 'Of course, that's Jane,' and it generally was."

Jane suddenly turned on her sister. "At any rate, she said in a stifled voice, 'when you want anything done, you know who to come to.'"

"What a nasty little temper," Dulcie said serenely. She stretched out a slim hand. "Give me that pink cake, please—I see it's the only one, and nobody else can have it."

There was an uncomfortable silence when Jane suddenly snatched up the little cake and flung it with all her force into the fire. "Get it if you want it," she said passionately.

"Well!" Dulcie said blankly. Gavin flushed and groped in his jacket pocket for a cigarette. "Will you smoke, Jane?" he asked.

"No, thank you." "I will," Dulcie said; she leaned towards him for a light, her fair head very close to his. "Nice cigarettes," she said.

"Aren't they the same as those Gavin gave you the other night?" Jane asked.

"Are they? Yes, I believe they are," Dulcie answered, and she and Gavin exchanged smiles.

Mary came to the door. "You're wanted on the telephone, Miss Dulcie."

The girl sprang to her feet. "I expect it's Josh," she said, and the door closed behind her.

"Will you have some more tea?" Jane asked.

"No, thanks." Gavin rose, put his cup down on the table beside her, and then said gently, "Isn't— all this rather foolish, my dear?"

"The unexpected kindness in his voice brought the tears to Jane's eyes and forced the passionate admission from her lips. 'I hate her. She always makes fun of me—I hate her. Why can't she leave me alone—and you, too. She's got her own friends.'"

She dashed a shaking hand across her eyes. "I'm sorry," she said at last. "I suppose, I behaved like a fool. Are you very angry with me?"

"I'm only sorry," Gavin said. "Sorry?" she looked up at him, her lips quivering. Sorry for me?" she asked.

"Sorry, because I know you're not happy," he answered, and then after a moment, "I warned you, Jane, didn't I? I told you that you were making a bad bargain."

She gave a hard little laugh. "I shan't keep you to the bargain if you want to be free," she said. Dulcie came back.

"Take Gavin," Jane said, and instantly she felt as if she could cut out her tongue. Why had she given Dulcie the satisfaction of seeing that she was jealous? Why had life suddenly become such an ugly, twisted affair? What was the matter with her that this dreadful hatred of her sister should have arisen in her heart?

By The Associated Press.

Governor Rivers concluded yesterday a series of sentiment-sounding conferences with legislators expressing confidence that the coming session of the general assembly would see Georgia's "little new Deal" carried through.

He said that during the several weeks that he has been holding conferences he has talked with more than 75 per cent of the representatives and that he will be able to assert it was too early yet to discuss specific legislation but that he was going

Hapeville Expects New Postal Rating

With Hapeville's postal receipts for 1938 likely to pass the $10,000 mark, Postmaster W. R. Conine said yesterday that he expects the community to be promoted from third to second

Post-office ranking is based on receipts, he said, explaining that during the last year Hapeville receipts had increased approximately $2,500.

The new classification will mean more pay for postal employees, better service for the town, and will qualify the community for a new federal building.

BURLEY GROWERS TO BALLOT TODAY

Georgia's Vote, However, To Have Little Weight.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Georgia will have only a small voice tomorrow in determining the fate of a proposed marketing quas on the 1939 burley tobacco crop.

About 250,000 growers are eligible to vote, but only about 300 of these are in Georgia, all in about a score of north Georgia counties. Union county with 50 planters, Fannin with 30 and Towns and Whifflet with 25 each have the largest totals.

All crop control referenda conducted under terms of the Agricultural Adjustment Act and these growers will be governed by the national outcome, regardless of the result in Georgia.

The great bulk of this state's tobacco raising business is in south Georgia, where flue-cured leaf is grown.

About 75,000 growers of dark type tobacco also will vote on quas for their crop tomorrow, but Georgia does not raise this
